THREE MILLION DOLLAR BLAZE RUINS HAVANA REFINING PLANTS

BLUEJACKETS HELP CHECK FLAMES FROM SPREADING TO CITY

Eleven Standard Co.
Tanks Destroyed;
Seek Firebug

HAVANA, April 6.—The fire which swept the three refining plants of the Standard Oil Company on the outskirts of Regla was controlled today after it had caused $3,000,000 damage. The fire is believed to have been of incendiary origin.

United States sailors from the battleship Wyoming helped the firemen to prevent the flames from spreading into the town. Nineteen sailors were overcome by fumes.

Forty-one residents of the fire zone were injured, including one woman.

The fire was still burning this morning, but had been localized. Soldiers and police were guarding the district.

Eleven petroleum and gasoline storage tanks were destroyed.

For a time it looked as though the flames would spread to ships anchored in the eastern part of Havana Harbor and they were removed from their moorings.

When the fire was at its height the great $15,000,000 plant was a blazing inferno, the glare being visible for nearly twenty miles.

Residents of the neighborhood fled from their homes in panic as the tanks began to explode. The panic stricken people fled to the water side where they were taken aboard boats. Owing to the vast clouds of dense black smoke which billowed upward from the blazing tanks ships turned their searchlights upon the shore to aid the rescue work.

MUDDERS IN GLORY OVER TEXAS SILT

AMARILLO, Tex., April 6.—The mudders were favored as C. C. Pyle's New York bound heeled-toed caravan sunk their feet into the moist silt of the Texas panhandle in their forty-two-mile march to Groom today. Pat DeMarr, Los Angeles pugilist, smiled through features that bear marks of numerous ring battles at the lowering clouds overhead. This hardy son of Erin led the van through thirty-seven miles of snow, sleet and rain from Vega to Amarillo, covering the distance in 5:29:42.

Arne Suominen, Detroit Naprapath, finished fifth, to retain the race leadership. His elapsed time for the 1,189 miles covered in thirty-three days is 196:07:43.

Five hours, seven minutes, forty-five seconds behind him was Andrew Payne, with Peter Gavuzzi, Southampton, England, two hours, nineteen minutes, forty-two seconds slower than the young Oklahoman.

TO ARRAIGN MRS. KNAPP ON CHARGES

ALBANY, N. Y., April 6.—Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, former secretary of state, will appear in Supreme Court at 1 o'clock this afternoon and plead not guilty to six indictments charging her with felonies and misdemeanors in connection with her administration of the 1925 census fund of $1,200,000.

When Mrs. Knapp failed to appear at 10 o'clock this morning, Supreme Court Justice Stephen Callahan adjourned court until 1 o'clock this afternoon upon being informed by Special Deputy Attorney General George Z. Medaille that Mrs. Knapp would be present at that time.

ADA ISOLATED BY CRIPPLED PHONES

KENTON, O., April 6.—Though long distance telephone service was established today to practically every community of Ohio, Ada, seat of Ohio Northern University, remained isolated, and present indications are that another week will elapse before outside telephone communication can be established.

Telephone service at Ada was crippled a week ago, when Western and northern Ohio telephone facilities were severely crippled.

FIGURES IN CHICAGO TURMOIL

Illicit rum rings are blamed for the recent outbreaks of bombings and shootings in Chicago. Dry agents sent there by Seymour Lowman (upper left), national prohibition chief, are accused of wounding a local officer. Arrests have been made for the bombings of the homes of Judge John S. Swanson (lower left) and United States Senator Charles S. Deneen (lower right). Mayor William H. Thompson (upper right) has ordered every resource for a quick clean-up.

OMAHA ISOLATED BY SEVERE BLIZZARD; HEAVY SNOW FALL

CHICAGO, April 6.—Omaha, Neb., is isolated by a severe blizzard, according to reports here early today.

Five inches of snow fell in Omaha during the night and snow was still falling there today, the Chicago weather bureau reported this morning.

All wires to the Nebraska city are down and telephone and telegraph companies reported almost all wires out.

vest of Des Moines, Ia. The Nebraska storm came in the wake of a series of tornadoes, which earlier in the week swept over Oklahoma, Kansas and Texas, taking a toll of seven lives and causing heavy property damage.

Chicago was darkened today by a heavy fog which presaged stormy weather. The temperature here dropped overnight from 60 degrees to near freezing.

CRABBE WITHDRAWS AS HEAD OF HOOVER SPEECH COMMITTEE

COLUMBUS, O., April 6.—Announcement that former Attorney General C. C. Crabbe, Columbus, has withdrawn from active support of the Hoover presidential campaign, as a result of the recent death of U. S. Senator Frank B. Willis, was made today at Willis state headquarters.

Col. Carmi A. Thompson, chairman of the Willis delegates' committee, it was stated, issued a letter to organization workers throughout Ohio stating that "the election of Willis delegates (from Ohio to the Republican national convention) means that these delegates are not bound unalterably to any one candidate, but are in a position to vote for such outstanding Republicans as Vice President Dawes, former Governor Lowden, of Illinois; former Secretary of State Hughes, or President Coolidge, if and when their names should be presented to the convention."

Colonel Thompson said he had received hundreds of telegrams, letters and telephone calls endorsing the action taken by the Willis delegates and alternates here Thursday night when they adopted their resolution substantially announcing that, if elected, they would go to the national convention as an uncommitted delegation.

Stating that it "is typical of many messages which I have received from former staunch supporters of Secretary Hoover, Colonel Thompson made public a copy of the letter written by Crabbe to Willard Miller, Columbus, chairman of the Franklin County Hoover committee.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Kill the tax reduction bill or kill all special relief legislation.

This warning was served on congress today by Senator William H. King (D) of Utah, who pointed out that the legislative program of congress now authorizes an outlay of $1,750,000,000 of federal funds.

If this program is enacted into law, King declared, the treasury surplus will be wiped out like a "drop in the bucket" and the government confronted with a terrific deficit. If tax reduction legislation is enacted on top of this, King added, the deficit will be only that much greater.

MUSICAL DIRECTOR BROKE, ENDS LIFE

NEW YORK, April 6.—Success was just around the corner for Perke Hamburg, but just around the corner was too far away to answer the immediate financial needs of the brilliant musical director. He killed himself with a duelling pistol in a hotel here early today.

Hotel officials said Hamburg had been unable to pay when asked for an advance payment on his suit of rooms. But in a few short weeks he was to have received $1,000 in cash and $500 a week thereafter for acting as musical director of a forthcoming theatrical production, according to a contract found in his pocket.

MARKETS CLOSED

NEW YORK, April 6.—All security and commodity markets here and elsewhere in the United States are closed today in observance of Good Friday.

The banks remain open today and tomorrow, but foreign exchange quotations were nominal.

Most of the exchanges throughout the country will close on Saturday, the exceptions being the New York Produce Exchange and the Chicago Board of Trade.

British financial and commodity markets remain closed over Easter Monday, or until next Tuesday.

INVESTIGATE JURY PICKED FOR SECOND TRIAL OF SINCLAIR

Scrutinize Venire Drawn
For Trial On Monday

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Federal agents and private detectives today were completing an exhaustive inquiry into the private lives of the 550 men and women from among whom the jury will be selected to try Harry P. Sinclair, millionaire oil magnate and sportsman, next Monday for criminal conspiracy to defraud the government of the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve.

This investigation had to do with the nature of employment of each of the veniremen and their families; their religious beliefs and fraternal affiliations; whether or not they own oil stock; their general reputations, and a score of other points.

The government's investigation is being conducted through inquiry of the employers of the jury panel. The defense methods are not known, but it is understood the work is being done either by one of the many private detectives who serve local lawyers or by a credit agency.

Great care is being exercised by both sides. Sinclair already is under a six-month sentence for contempt of court as a result of hiring the Burns Detective Agency to shadow the jury that sat in the original conspiracy trial last fall, and Justice P. L. Siddons, of the District Supreme Court, has ruled that jury shadowing by either the government or the defense is illegal.

There will be great difficulty in picking twelve men and women for Monday's trial. As a result of last October's mistrial, it is common knowledge among the veniremen that this jury will be locked up for the duration of the trial, approximately a month. Most of them are expected to tell the court they have formed an opinion in the case which would disqualify them from sitting.

DRY AGENTS PLAYING POLITICS ARE OUT

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Prohibition agents who participate in political activities during the coming presidential campaign will be dismissed from the service, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Seymour Lowman, in charge of dry operations, announced today.

Strict orders have been issued to administrators warning them not only of restrictions against "playing politics" issued by the treasury, but similar regulations on the subject laid down by the civil service commission, under which the dry machine operates.

Difficulties are expected to be met in carrying out the orders, since many agents and subordinate officials owe their original appointments to political backers. The 1928 campaign will be the first in which a flat ban has been placed on political activity of dry agents.

FATHER OF TWINS

WHITESBURG, Ky., April 6.—Nelson R. Webb, 76, today was the father of twins—a boy and a girl. They arrived late yesterday while the father was celebrating his birthday.

NEW YORK, April 6.—Success was just around the corner for Perke Hamburg, but just around the corner was too far away to answer the immediate financial needs of the brilliant musical director. He killed himself with a duelling pistol in a hotel here early today.

Hotel officials said Hamburg had been unable to pay when asked for an advance payment on his suit of rooms. But in a few short weeks he was to have received $1,000 in cash and $500 a week thereafter for acting as musical director of a forthcoming theatrical production, according to a contract found in his pocket.

FOUR TRUNK SYSTEM IS ESTABLISHED BY STEAM EXECUTIVE

Believe Agreement Big
Step Toward Consolidation

NEW YORK, April 6.—Regrouping into a four-trunk line system of railroads worth from $5,000,000,000 to $10,000,000,000 and operating more than 50,000 miles of track, was reported today by powerful railroad executives after a series of meetings held behind closed doors in this city.

The agreement was reached only after a threatened break between L. F. Loree, sponsor of a fifth trunk line between east and west, and the railroad officials who favored the four-trunk system. The break was averted by Otto H. Kahn, a member of Kuhn, Loeb and Company, bankers for Loree and his proposed system.

After negotiations had apparently failed, Kahn called another meeting at which the agreement was reached. It was said on seemingly credible authority that the plan calls for four trunk lines, and not five, and that the plan as finally presented was satisfactory to Loree. Under the plan is understood, Loree's Delaware and Hudson is assured of access to the west.

The agreement marks a long step forward toward consolidation of the Eastern lines, but it does not mean that this goal—which railroad executives have been working on for months—has been achieved. The Interstate Commerce Commission must pass on the final plans and their hearings probably would require six months. The minority stockholders must be given opportunity to raise objections to the merger, if they have any to make, and the interests of individuals and communities must be given consideration.

Loree's fifth-trunk line plan was doomed at a meeting on Wednesday when the Pennsylvania Railroad definitely withdrew its support to that proposition. The Pennsylvania, however, does support the four-trunk system which eventually became acceptable to Loree. Loree had planned a line to the west (the fifth-trunk) to be formed by the Wabash railway, the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh and the Delaware and Hudson, or alternatively, the Lehigh Valley. To connect the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh with the Delaware and Hudson, Loree at one time had an agreement for trackage rights with the Pennsylvania but this no longer exists.

The railroad executives who sat in at the sessions here this week would not discuss the agreement for the new four-trunk system. Loree would neither affirm nor deny the report, referring inquiries to W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, who presided at the meetings.

In Wall Street, it was generally believed that Loree's Lehigh Valley holdings probably had been traded to the Pennsylvania in return for an important part in the new alignment. The Wabash Railway, which runs from Buffalo to Chicago and western points and in which Loree has large holdings, may be shared with the Baltimore and Ohio, which has desired that road. The New York Central had been reported as due to receive the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western.

Among those present at the deliberations this week were President Atterbury of the Pennsylvania; Loree; P. E. Crowley, president of the New York Central; Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio; E. J. Berner, president of the Erie; O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen of the Nickel Plate; A. J. County, financial vice president of the Pennsylvania; and George V. Shiver, senior vice president of the Baltimore and Ohio.

THROWN FROM AUTO

NEWARK, O., April 6.—Mrs. Anna Denny is in City Hospital here, probably fatally injured as the result of being thrown from an automobile after it had been hit by a bus early today. The victim was enroute home after attending early church services. Bernard Kelley, bus driver, is being held by police for investigation.

FUNERAL SERVICES PLANNED SATURDAY MORNING FOR DEPEW

President Hopes To Attend; State Honors
Financier

NEW YORK, April 6.—Elaborate preparations are being made today for the funeral of Chauncey Mitchell Depew, distinguished statesman, financier and railroad executive who died at his home here early yesterday in his ninety-fourth year.

The funeral service will be held tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock at St. Thomas' Church, on Fifth Ave. Burial will be tomorrow afternoon at Pekkskill, N. Y., the birthplace of Mr. Depew and the home of his youth.

If his duties will permit, President Coolidge hopes to come here from Washington for the funeral. Numerous notables throughout the east will attend the services. Messages of condolence from hundreds of others, who will be unable to be present, continued to reach Mrs. Depew at her home here today.

Fifty members of the Union League Club, including Edith Root, will go to the church in a body. Mr. Depew was the third oldest member of the club, in duration of membership.

Bishop William T. Manning, Bishop Ernest M. Stires and the Rev. Rolin H. Brooks will officiate at the religious rites at St. Thomas' Church tomorrow. The boy choir of the church will sing.

By order of Governor Alfred E. Smith, the flags of New York state's public buildings were at half-mast today, as were the flags on all the buildings in twelve states of the New York Central Railroad. Mr. Depew had served the railroad for sixty-two years as counsel, president and chairman of the board of directors.

Sixteen hundred passenger and freight trains of the New York Central and subsidiary systems will be halted for thirty seconds tomorrow morning when the funeral cortege starts for Peekskill. It was reported today that such an order might be put into effect, and that other roads might follow the example of the Central.

FLIGHT DELAYED

DUBLIN, April 6.—Weather reports today gave no indication that conditions would improve sufficiently within the next few days to warrant a take-off for America by Capt. Koehl and his companions. Meanwhile, the Junkers monoplane Bremen remained in its hangar at the Baldonnel airport with everything in readiness for an immediate start, should the weather reports become favorable.

MERCEDES GLEITZ, BRITISH TYPIST CONQUEROR OF STRAITS

CEUTA, Morocco, April 6.—Miss Mercedes Gleitz, London's typist-swimmer, today holds the distinction of being the first swimmer to successfully navigate the Strait of Gibraltar.

Undaunted by six previous failures, the girl swimmer entered the water at Triana, Spain at 7:50 o'clock yesterday morning and reached the shore at Punta Leona, Spanish Morocco, at 9 o'clock last night.

Aided by favorable currents and moderately tempered water, the girl crossed the 27-mile stretch of water in thirteen hours and twenty minutes.

Prior to her attempts to conquer the Gibraltar Strait, Miss Gleitz had successfully negotiated the English Channel. She swam the channel on October 7, 1927, on her eighth attempt, and was the third woman to perform that feat.

TOLEDO, O., April 6.—More than a score of nurses and patients at the Lucas County branch hospital here, today were undergoing vaccination treatment, following the discovery that a smallpox victim had visited the hospital Wednesday night.

Governor Vic Donahey late yesterday appointed Cyrus Locher, state commerce director, to become U. S. senator, succeeding Frank B. Willis, who died. Friday the governor appointed Lieutenant Governor Earl D. Bloom, Bowling Green, to become commerce director. It is reported that John L. Zimmerman, Springfield attorney, may succeed Bloom as lieutenant governor. Bloom is shown above, Zimmerman, below.

WEATHER PREVENTS WILKINS TAKE OFF ON ARCTIC FLIGHT

Flyer Remains At Point
Barrow Radio Message Says

SEWARD, Alaska, April 6.—Delayed by cloudy weather, Captain George H. Wilkins, noted Australian explorer, and his pilot, Carl Eielson, were today awaiting a favorable opportunity to take off at Point Barrow on the contemplated aerial expedition over the north pole to Spitzbergen.

A two-day silence, during which it was conjectured that Captain Wilkins and his pilot might have already launched the hazardous air journey over the frozen polar wastes, was broken by a radio message from the famous explorer received at the United States army wireless station here.

The message stated that the sky at Point Barrow had suddenly become overcast with clouds, forcing Captain Wilkins to postpone the take-off yesterday. If the clouds depart, the message said, the take-off may be made today.

The flight across the top of the world was to have begun yesterday, according to the plans of Capt. Wilkins announced in a radio message from him picked up by the government wireless station Tuesday night.

Indications today were that the terrific Arctic storms which have raged in the vicinity of Point Barrow since Capt. Wilkins' arrival there have abated. But the cloudiness reported in the explorer's message may be a portent of further storms which might necessitate another postponement.

GOVERNOR SELECTS COMMERCE HEAD AS WILLIS' SUCCESSOR

Lieutenant Governor Is Named To Donahey

COLUMBUS, O., April 6.—Appointment by Governor Vic Donahey of Lieut. Gov. Earl D. Bloom, Bowling Green, Democrat, as state director of commerce, succeeding Attorney Cyrus Locher, Cleveland, also a Democrat, was announced today. Locher's appointment as U. S. senator was announced by the governor late yesterday.

It was indicated today that Governor Donahey may appoint Attorney Charles B. Zimmerman, Springfield, Democrat, to succeed Bloom as lieutenant governor. Zimmerman was the unsuccessful Democratic nominee for attorney general during the last state campaign. He is the son of John L. Zimmerman, well-known Springfield attorney.

Bloom is scheduled to assume his new duties as commerce director on April 16, the date of Locher's resignation from that office. Locher expects to take up his work as U. S. Senator on April 16. Bloom is serving his third term as lieutenant governor of Ohio. In 1925, Governor Donahey selected Bloom as a member of the State Utilities Commission but the senate rejected the appointment. Bloom is a practicing attorney at Bowling Green where he also is engaged in the real estate business, banking and other business activities. He is married, 3 children, Mrs. W. L. Rowland, resides in Columbus.

SUSPENDED CANTON POLICEMAN MUST BE REINSTATED, RULE

Captain Ben Clarke Wins
Fight And Back
Salary

CANTON, O., April 6.—Ben E. Clarke, suspended Canton police captain emerged victorious here today in his fight for re-instatement on the local police force.

Clarke, who had been suspended by Mayor C. C. Curtis, January 15, last, will receive half-pay retroactive to that date, according to the decision of the city civil service commission, which this morning voted 2 to 1 to reinstate the former Bertillon officer and continue the half-pay until such time as Clarke is able to resume his duties.

Clarke, partially paralyzed as the result of being shot through accidental discharge of his own revolver when it dropped from his pocket, December 31, 1926, may be able to return to work by August of this year, according to his physicians.

The two charges against Clarke were:

- 1.—That he had failed to report at his office for duty for more than a year, because of his physical condition; and
- 2.—Conduct unbecoming an officer.

KENTUCKY TO RIDE HOOVER BANDWAGON

COLUMBUS, O., April 6.—Kentucky's twenty-two delegates to the national Republican convention at Kansas City will ride in the Hoover bandwagon, it was learned here today at the political headquarters of the Californian. This recommendation, it was said, was made by the resolutions committee late yesterday during the Republican state convention at Louisville.

The seven delegates at large were instructed to vote for Hoover as long as his name is before the convention.

The delegates at large named are: Gov. Flem D. Sampson, U. S. Senator Fred M. Sackett; Congressman John M. Robinson, Mrs. Christine B. South, Mrs. John W. Langley, Mrs. A. T. Hert, and Dr. W. T. Merchant, negro.

NEW YORK PEOPLE LEADS RADIO SETS

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Twelve per cent of the 5,257,000 radio receivers in operation in American homes are in the state of New York, according to a compilation made public today by the Federal Radio Commission.

Pennsylvania had 612,000 or 8 per cent of the sets, California and Illinois, 7 per cent each, Ohio six per cent and Michigan four per cent.

HOLD TAX DODGER

NEW YORK, April 6.—John M. Phillips, Queens Sewer Pipe king was arrested today in the Allison Hospital at Miami, Florida, on a charge of evading government taxes, it was announced here.

WARNING ISSUED AGAINST TAX CUT

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Kill the tax reduction bill or kill all special relief legislation.

This warning was served on congress today by Senator William H. King (D) of Utah, who pointed out that the legislative program of congress now authorizes an outlay of $1,750,000,000 of federal funds.

If this program is enacted into law, King declared, the treasury surplus will be wiped out like a "drop in the bucket" and the government confronted with a terrific deficit. If tax reduction legislation is enacted on top of this, King added, the deficit will be only that much greater.

Congress must cut down on its present program of new appropriations, the Utah senator said, or abandon tax relief legislation for years to come; the expenditures within the next year under the current legislative program, he added, will total $500,000,000 more than double the expected 1929 surplus.

INVESTIGATE JURY PICKED FOR SECOND TRIAL OF SINCLAIR

Scrutinize Venire Drawn
For Trial On Monday.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Federal agents and private detectives today were completing an exhaustive inquiry into the private lives of the 550 men and women from among whom the jury will be selected to try Harry P. Sinclair, millionaire oil magnate and sportsman, next Monday for criminal conspiracy to defraud the government of the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve.

This investigation had to do with the nature of employment of each of the veniremen and their families; their religious beliefs and fraternal affiliations; whether or not they own oil stock; their general reputations; and a score of other points.

The government's investigation is being conducted through inquiry of the employers of the jury panel. The defense methods are not known, but it is understood the work is being done either by one of the many private detectives who serve local lawyers or by a credit agency.

Great care is being exercised by both sides. Sinclair already is under a six-month sentence for contempt of court as a result of hiring the Burns Detective Agency to shadow the jury that sat in the original conspiracy trial last fall, and Justice F. L. Siddons, of the District Supreme Court, has ruled that jury shadowing by either the government or the defense is illegal.

There will be great difficulty in picking twelve men and women for Monday's trial. As a result of last October's mistrial, it is common knowledge among the veniremen that this jury will be locked up for the duration of the trial, approximately a month. Most of them are expected to tell the court they have formed an opinion in the case, which would disqualify them from sitting.

FOUR TRUNK SYSTEM IS ESTABLISHED BY STEAM EXECUTIVE

Believe Agreement Big

NEW YORK, April 6.—Regrouping into a four-trunk line system of railroads worth from $5,000,000,000 to $10,000,000,000 and operating more than 50,000 miles of track, was reported today to have been agreed upon by powerful railroad executives after a series of meetings held behind closed doors in this city.

The agreement was reached only after a three-day conference between L. F. Loree, sponsor of a fifth trunk line between east and west, and the railroad officials who favored the four-trunk system. ## THROWN FROM AUTO

NEWARK, O., April 6.—Mrs. Anna Denny is in City Hospital here, probably fatally injured as the result of being thrown from an automobile after it had been hit by a car. The New York Central enroute home after attending early church services, Bernard Kelley, bus driver, is being held by police for investigation.

FEDERAL DRY OFFICER WILL BE TURNED OVER TO AUTHORITIES PROBING SHOOTING CASE

CHICAGO, April 6.—City and County authorities today were claiming victory in the brush with government officials over the custody of Myron Caffey, federal prohibition agent who is accused of shooting William Beatty, municipal court bailiff, during one of George E. "Hard-Boiled" Golding's dry raids here recently.

Federal Judge James Wilkerson announced he would squash the writ which has shielded Caffey from arrest by local police. Judge Wilkerson mildly criticized the United States attorney's office for its conduct of the case and suggested that the county grand jury indict Caffey.

Mayor William Hale Thompson, who charged that "Hard-Boiled" Golding and his raiders were sent here at the suggestion of United States Senator Charles S. Deneen, Thompson's bitter political rival in the current seeking primary election

President Hopes To Attend; State Honors Financier

NEW YORK, April 6.—Elaborate funeral services are being made today for the funeral of Chauncey Mitchell Depew, distinguished statesman, financier and railroad executive who died at his home here early yesterday in his ninety-fourth year.

The funeral service will be held tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock at St. Thomas' Church, on Fifth Ave. Burial will be tomorrow afternoon at Pikeskill, N. Y., the birthplace of Mr. Depew and the home of his youth.

If his duties will permit, President Coolidge hopes to come here from Washington for the funeral. Numerous notables throughout the east will attend the services. Messages of condolence from hundreds of others, who will be unable to be present, continued to reach Mrs. Depew at her home here today.

Fifty members of the Union League Club, including Ethel Root, will go to the church in a body. Mr. Depew was the third oldest member of the club, in duration of membership.

Bishop William T. Manning, Bishop Ernest M. Stires and the Rev. Rollin H. Brooks will officiate at the religious rites at St. Thomas' Church tomorrow. The boy choir of the church will sing.

By order of Governor Alfred E. Smith, the flags of New York State's public buildings were at half-mast today, as were the flags on all the buildings in twelve states of the New York Central Railroad. Mr. Depew had served the railroad for sixty-two years as counsel, president and chairman of the board of directors.

Sixteen hundred passenger and freight trains of the New York Central and subsidiary systems may be halted for thirty seconds tomorrow morning when the funeral cortege starts for Pikeskill. It was reported today that such an order might be put into effect, and that other roads might follow the example of the Central.

FLIGHT DELAYED

DUBLIN, April 6.—Weather reports today gave no indication that conditions would improve sufficiently within the next few days to warrant a take-off for America by Capt. Koshi and his companions. Meanwhile, the Junkers monoplane Bremen remained in its hangar at the Baldonnell airfield with everything in readiness for an immediate start, should the weather reports become favorable.

MERCEDES GLEITZ, BRITISH TYPIST CONQUEROR OF STRAITS

CEUTA, Morocco, April 6.—Miss Mercedes Gleitz, London's typist swimmer, today holds the distinction of being the first swimmer to successfully navigate the Strait of Gibraltar.

Undaunted by six previous failures, the girl swimmer entered the water at Thira, Spain at 7:50 o'clock yesterday morning and reached the shore at Punta Leona, Spanish Morocco, at 9 o'clock last night.

Aided by favorable currents and moderately tempered water, the girl crossed the 27-mile stretch of water in thirteen hours and twenty minutes.

Prior to her attempts to conquer the Gibraltar Strait, Miss Gleitz had successfully negotiated the English Channel. She swam the channel on October 7, 1927, on her eighth attempt, and was the third woman to perform that feat.

FEAR SMALLPOX

TOLEDO, O., April 6.—More than a score of nurses and patients at the Lucas County branch hospital here, today were undergoing vaccination treatment, following the discovery that a smallpox victim had visited the hospital Wednesday night.

GOVERNOR SELECTS COMMERCE HEAD AS WILLIS' SUCCESSOR

Lieutenant Governor Is
Named To Donahey

COLUMBUS, O., April 6.—Appointment by Governor Vic Donahey of Lieut. Gov. Earl D. Bloom, Bowling Green, Democrat, as state director of commerce, succeeding Attorney Cyrus Locher, Cleveland, also a Democrat, was announced today. Locher's appointment as U. S. senator was announced by the governor late yesterday.

It was indicated today that Governor Donahey may appoint Attorney Charles B. Zimmerman, Springfield, Democrat, to succeed Bloom as lieutenant governor. Zimmerman was the unsuccessful Democratic nominee for attorney general during the last state campaign. He is the son of John L. Zimmerman, well-known Springfield attorney.

Bloom is scheduled to assume his new duties as commerce director on April 16, the date of Locher's resignation from that office. Locher expects to take up his work as U. S. Senator on April 16.

Bloom is serving his third term as lieutenant governor of Ohio. In 1925, Governor Donahey selected Bloom as a member of the State Utilities Commission but the senate rejected the appointment.

Bloom is a practicing attorney at Bowling Green where he also is engaged in the real estate business, banking and other business activities. He is married. A daughter, Mrs. W. L. Rowland, resides in Columbus.

SUSPENDED CANTON POLICEMAN MUST BE REINSTATED, RULE

Captain Ben Clarke Wins
Fight And Back
Salary

CANTON, O., April 6.—Ben E. Clarke, suspended Canton police captain emerged victorious here today in his fight for reinstatement on the local police force.

Clarke, who had been suspended by Mayor C. C. Curtis, January 15, last, will receive half-pay retroactive to that date, according to the decision of the city civil service commission, which this morning voted 2 to 1 to reinstate the former Bertillon officer and continue the half-pay until such time as Clarke is able to resume his duties.

Clarke, partially paralyzed as the result of being shot through accidental discharge of his own revolver when it dropped from his pocket, December 31, 1926, may be able to return to work by August of this year, according to his physicians.

The two charges against Clarke were:

1.—That he had failed to report at his office for duty for more than a year, because of his physical condition, and

2.—Conduct unbecoming an officer.

KENTUCKY TO RIDE HOOVER BANDWAGON

COLUMBUS, O., April 6.—Kentucky's twenty-nine delegates to the national Republican convention at Kansas City will ride in on the Hoover bandwagon, it was learned here today as the political headquarters of the Californian. This recommendation, it was said, was made by the resolutions committee late yesterday during the Republican state convention at Louisville.

The seven delegates at large were instructed to vote for Hoover as long as his name is before the convention.

The delegates at large named are: Gov. Flem D. Sampson, U. S. Senator Fred M. Sackett; Congressman John M. Robinson, Mrs. Christine B. South, Mrs. John W. Langley, Mrs. A. T. Hertz, and Dr. W. T. Merchant, negro.

NEW YORK PEOPLE LEADS RADIO SETS

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Twelve per cent of the 5,275,000 radio receivers in operation in American homes are in the state of New York, according to a compilation made public today by the Federal Radio Commission.

Pennsylvania had 613,000 or 8 per cent of the sets, California and Illinois, 7 per cent each, Ohio six per cent and Michigan four per cent.

HOLD TAX DODGER

NEW YORK, April 6.—John M. Phillips, Queens Sewer Pipe King has arrested today in the Allison Hospital at Miami, Florida, on a charge of evading government taxes, it was announced here.

NEGRO EXECUTED
AFTER LONG WAIT

SING SING, N. Y., April 6.—The Sing Sing prison cell which Frank "Dixie" Baldwin, 32, occupied for more than fifteen months, was empty today. The negro was executed last night for the murder of Jahon Dickinson, a farmer of Ovid, N. Y.

During his long wait in the death house no friends or relatives called to see the negro, but other convicts befriended him. Henry Judd Gray left Baldwin a small sum of money before he was executed with Ruth Snyder for the murder of the latter's husband, Albert.

Baldwin went to his death calmly.

WOMAN SAVED FROM
LEDGE OF WINDOW

COLUMBUS, O., April 6.—Mrs. J. A. Dearborn, Warren, who was saved from death yesterday, as she clung from a window ledge of the 28th floor of the A. I. U. building, today was reported to be in a nervous condition in her hotel here.

Members of the family did not explain, how Mrs. Dearborn got into her perilous condition when building employees were warned of her danger and pulled her to safety.

PRISONERS CAUGHT

LIMA, O., April 6.—Two of six prisoners who escaped Wednesday from the workhouse welfare farm at Toledo, today were being held here for Lucas County authorities following their capture here yesterday. The men, David Martin, and Joseph Anderson, were taken into custody as they camped along the highway just outside the city. They said they were thumbing their way south.

King May Abdicate

Dispatches from Italy indicate that King Victor Emmanuel either will take steps to defend the Italian constitution or abdicate. He faces the alternative of confirming the new electoral law, which he believes, it is indicated, is unconstitutional, or dissolving parliament and abdicating in favor of some other member of the royal family more inclined to agree with Premier Benito Mussolini.

Now the Instantaneous
Potato Dip
Disinfect your seed this new way

Treat your seed potatoes as fast as you can scoop them up. Just dip them in DIPDUST solution and out again—all ready to plant.

This new seed potato disinfectant is much more effective than the old-fashioned "two-hour soak" treatment—besides there is not the slightest danger of injuring the sprouts or even cut seed. This season late blight attack in many seed producing areas makes treatment with DIPDUST necessary to prevent seed decay.

After one trial of DIPDUST, you will never again waste two hours treating seed potatoes or spend two weeks worrying about your stand. DIPDUST PROTECTS THE SEED AND INSURES STURDY, PROFITABLE PLANTS.

Compare this New Treatment point by point with the older ones:

THE NEW WAY

Dipdust Organic
Mercury Disinfectant

1. Requires less than 1 minute. One man can easily treat from 200 to 400 bushels of potatoes per day.
2. Can be used on cut or sprouted seed without the slightest injury.
3. After cutting, protects the cut surfaces from seedrotting organisms in the soil. This insures a better stand of stronger plants.
4. Controls surface-borne diseases, such as Rhizoctonia, scab and blackleg.
5. Improves the stand and growth of the plants, and thus increases the yield 10 to 20 per cent.

THE OLD WAY

Formaldehyde or Corrosive Sublimate

1. Requires from 1 1/2 to 2 hours. One man can treat only from 50 to 75 bushels per day.
2. Can not be used on cut or sprouted seed without injury.
3. Before cutting, give no protection to the cut surfaces. The seed frequently decays in the ground before the young plants get started.
4. Although effective against Rhizoctonia, and scab, do not control black-leg.
5. Frequently decrease the stand, and therefore the yield, to a serious extent.

One pound treats 15 to 20 bushels of seed potatoes.

Treat your Corn and Vegetable Seeds Too

You can now also disinfect your seed corn and vegetable seeds with DIPDUST and increase your yield by preventing many of the diseases which cause poor germination, weak, spindly plants, and poor quality crop. Simply use as a dust treatment. It is easily and quickly applied and costs but a few cents per acre. One pound of DIPDUST will treat six bushels of seed corn, or from six to eight bushels of vegetable seed.

GUARANTEE
Plant a few
sacks of DIP-DUST treated seed in alternate rows
with untreated seed. If, at dig-

This is the season of the resurrection when all nature is awakening from the dullness, and apparent death, of winter to new life and beauty. The greening grass, the songs of birds, the first bright blossoms all proclaim the same glad fact—that nature is again enacting the annual miracle of resurrection.

Not only is nature re-born by the magic of the Springtime, but mankind, as well, responds to the thrill of awakening life with new ambitions, new hopes, new determinations. At this season also comes the desire for things fresh and beautiful to match the shining newness of the glorious Spring days.

Rejoicing in the re-awakened beauty of nature, and in the inspiration of the season, we extend the wish that each may find a new measure of achievement and happiness in this Easter period.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

WISDOM'S POWER—The Lord by wisdom hath founded the earth; by understanding hath he established the heavens. By his knowledge the depths are broken up, and the clouds drop down the dew.—Prov. 3:19, 20.

BROAD-GAUGE POLICIES

A New York state newspaper, in ridiculing the attempts of agitators to inflame the American people against many of our basic lines of industry, says:

"The railroads of the country, which have been made the target for the venom of the small-minded and the demagogic, carry a ton of freight one mile for less than a cent, while in Ben Franklin's day when a dollar had ten times the purchasing power it now has, it cost $8 to move a ton of freight a mile. A taxicab driver would charge about $10 for carrying a passenger as far as he might ride on a street car in practically any city in America today for less than a dime. Yet there is never any political outcry against the taxicab driver—only against the transportation company."

The country has been made a leader in world affairs not by the means-end method of doing business but by the broad-gauge activities of men with vision who have done things in a big way with vast amounts of capital.

The means-end method would never have given every man automobiles, a dozen trans-continental railroads, electric and telephone lines in every nook and corner of the land, gasoline and lubricating oils at prices unheard of in other nations, banks in even small towns, insurance covering every man, and common lowly commodities such as soap and quantities and varieties of which the inhabitants of most other world countries do not even dream. Modern plumbing and sanitation in the home is a thing distinctly American.

America will prosper in proportion as its people understand and encourage broad-gauge policies which aid in investment of capital and development of industries, with resulting distribution of necessities and luxuries to the masses, steady employment and good wages.

WARNING IN BOULDER DAM PROJECT

The St. Francis dam disaster should be a warning to Congress to go slow on the Boulder Dam project.

"If the money is once appropriated, the dam must be built. But impartial government engineers report difficulties and dangers which should be examined, tested and met before a single cent is appropriated. Observe that the Francisquito Dam was only 203 feet high, while the Boulder Dam in the Bridge Canyon site proposed to Congress is to be over 550 feet high holding back a volume of water many times greater than that which wrecked the Francisquito dam.

Not all rock is suitable to support any dam, however strong, or to resist the disintegrating power of water under great pressure. The foundation for a dam, and especially a lofty one, must be strictly and thoroughly studied not only by expert geologists but by expert chemists before the dam can be even begun with any sane respect to public safety. The bursting of a dam retaining 26,000,000 acre-feet of water on the Colorado river would cause a flood in the lower part of that river, the consequences of which have been faintly forecast in the Francisquito disaster.

In spite of all the money the government spent in making the White House safe, President Coolidge declines to occupy it four years more.

It takes at least two men to make greatness; one to do the stunt and one to cheer.

If every day was Sunday we would all be killed and injured soon.

PLANS

"His preparation of a plan is so inherently strong as to command the respect of able brains to which it must be submitted."

This was written by an observer of the methods of the late J. P. Morgan, Sr. Great business success has been built upon the foundation of careful plans. The most important thing a young man, newly out of school, can have is a plan. Lack of plan is accountable for the fact that so many men fail to seize opportunity when it presents itself. Lack of plan brings failure when success might be fairly simple and easy.

MOTHER

"We men go up the churchyard lane
With joke and song and ribald cry,
But silent, just beyond the wall,
The dead that where our Mothers lie.
And here and there along the close,
Deep-trodden in the rain-soaked grass,
The dreamless, uncomplaining dust
Will glow to hear our footsteps pass."

What a tribute to one of the things in this life that is sure and lasting—the love of a mother. Life, pleasant or unpleasant, as the case may be, contains little that is durable.

THE PERSONAL ANGLE

There is nothing of greater significance in life than the personal angle. Nothing is so significant as the quality of our personal relationships. No sort of so-called success, no achievement, no matter how apparently triumphant, is worth the cost of friendship. It is not worth the disruption of personal relationships. No victory is worth the upset of friendliness.

The Diary of a New Yorker

By CLARK KINNAIRD

NEW YORK, April 6.—I have been talking to a man whose successful career in his profession demands that he keep himself intimately informed on all of the idiosyncrasies of most of the inhabitants of the U. S. He is a buyer for the largest company operating 5 and 10 cent stores.

The company has 1,500 shops in the United States, but has only 36 buyers. That number of stores, selling the same variety of wares, if independent, would require at least 5,000 buyers. Buying and distribution have been reduced to an exact science, and the buyers themselves have become expert students in applied psychology. They have to know an amazing number of things about the effects of weather on trade in their stores, on economic and social conditions in various sections, on the kinds of toys most children like to play with, about what styles will be three months hence, about how many cans of paint, or jars of face cream, or doorknobs 10,000 persons will want to buy next August.

A chain store buyer, purchasing in million quantities, must make no mistakes. The things he buys must move rapidly off the shelves, for huge sales volume is necessary where the profit is a fraction of a cent on an article; and chain stores cannot allow huge inventories to pile up.

The buyer showed me figures indicating the average yearly profit of each store in the larger 10-cent chains. A Woolworth store in 1927 averaged $22,359 profit; a Kresge store, $33,131; a Kress, $27,508, and a McCrory, $31,928. Just a few of the buyers are stationed in New York. The company first referred to has permanent representatives in all large countries. The staff buys not only for shops in the United States, but for units in England, Canada, Cuba and Germany, so that the knowledge of human nature must be international and catholic.

Along Broadway a good girl is indicated as "pre-war."

Stories are getting around about display of temper of Charles A. Lindbergh, the more or less known flier; and it is these stories that are responsible for rumors that he is on the verge of a breakdown. As a matter of fact, he is in perfect physical condition.

The only times he displays anger are when persons insist upon crowding around and touching him. Many otherwise intelligent persons apparently are consumed with a desire to be able to say, "I stuck my finger in Lindy's eye, and tore his coat." Not long ago, the flier flared up and nearly struck a man who insisted on pawing him, but got control of himself in time. "I don't see how persons can be so rude," he complained to a companion.

At a private affair in an exclusive Long Island home, where he had been assured by his hostess that he could come incognito and "be himself," there were several dinner tables. As news spread that Lindy was present, guests, representatives of the highest aristocracy and supporters of the best breeding, left their chairs and plates to gather behind Lindy's and gaze at him. His hostess showed her distress and tried to show them away, then asked the flier if he would prefer to leave. "Slim," to allay her embarrassment, said he didn't strike a moment later a dowerer burst upon him, enveloped him in her arms and gave him a kiss. "Slim" arose and without a word departed.

A Problem in Conversation

I remember having once a difficult newspaper assignment which took me to a cattle ranch out West. There were two cowboys there with whom I was obliged to make myself solid, for I desired information which they alone could give me. This seemed like a woefully difficult task, for I was a tenderfoot and they were more likely to laugh at me, I feared, than to confide in me. But I quietly looked about for the proper sort of topical fulcrum.

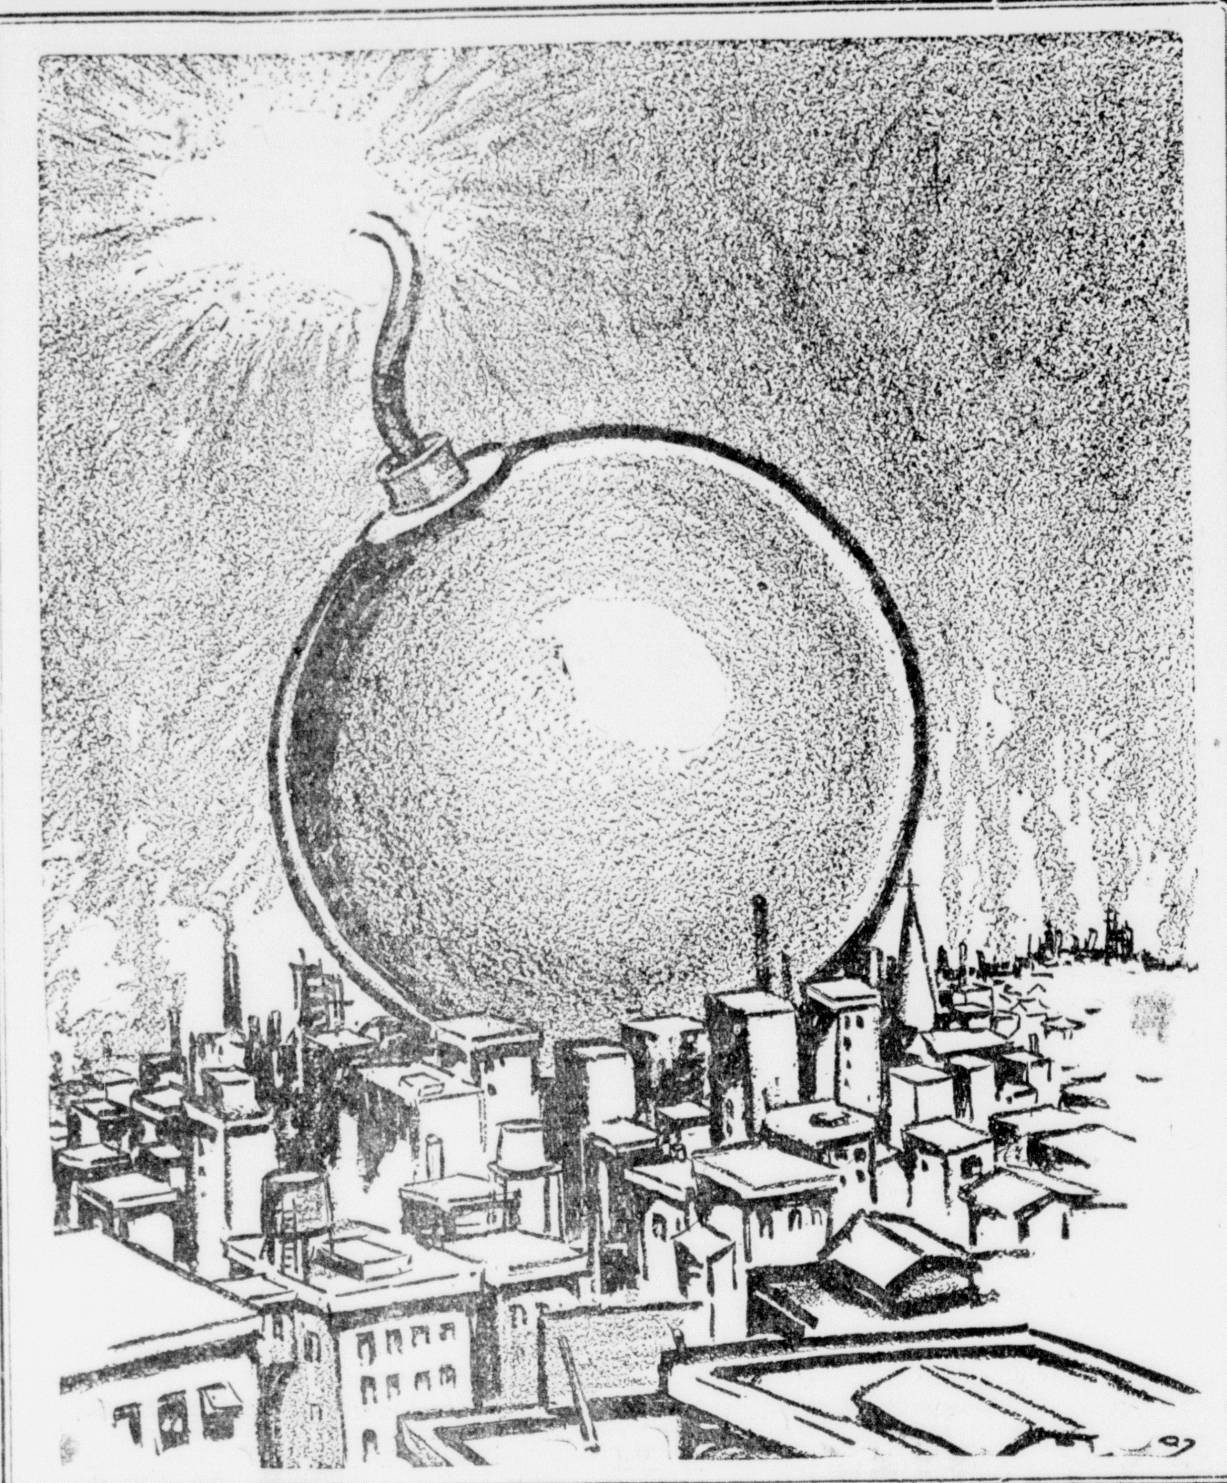

Among other things, I chanced to note that there was a division of opinion among the cowboys on this ranch as to whether it was better to have double girths or a single girth on a saddle. Moreover, I heard arguments about the wearing qualities of two different brands of overalls. I made it a point to find out what brand of pants two men wore, and how they would feel about them. It happened that both men were in sympathy with the double girth cut, and I accordingly found opportunity to remark casually to one of them that I was surprised to see so many men, otherwise intelligent, who rode on saddles having only a single girth. I said that it seemed to me that two girths would not only be a great deal safer for the rider, but vastly better for the horse.

"You've said something, old partner," agreed the cowboy. "A man couldn't give me a saddle with only one girth on it."

And from that time on we rapidly became friends. Then he and the other man and I took up the viewless question. My point of view was in such accord with theirs that our chumminess grew.

That reminds me of a little episode at the time of the San Francisco earthquake, to cover which event a reporter named Ross was learned that United States Marines had been landed in the city to maintain martial law and stop looting. Certain members of one company of marines had witnessed a lot of human interest scenes which he knew he would get detailed information if he merely went to members of the company and asked them point-blank for what he

How to Achieve Beauty

Balance and Its Importance to Rhythm

Rhythmic movement is founded on balance. For that matter, most of the beautiful things in the world are founded on that precious principle. But it is physical balance I want to speak of now.

There are several very simple exercises which will teach you how to balance your weight when standing so that you don't throw one hip out of line, how to balance so that you can rise easily and gracefully instead of struggling to your feet. Begin in the correct starting position. Hands on hips. Raise the right knee little by little in four staccato counts. I do not mean that the counts are to be quick, the movements are. Divide the movement into four definite counts. Alternate first the right, then the left leg.

last is also a marvellous reducing exercise, and by the time you have learned to complete a good graceful exercise, you will find that "balance" is so thoroughly impregnated in your system that the other more strenuous activities (which will follow) will be quite simple. An old and even less complicated exercise is to tap the right foot in a semi circle, ankle stretched; body very firm and straight, counting eight taps, not too fast, to each movement. Your weight, of course, is on the left foot.

When you have mastered the balance step, begin clapping eight times to the eight beats of your foot movement, one clap to each beat. If you find it easy, you are singularly fortunate. Another thing you will find very helpful is to jump with the opposite foot on the last count of the movement. Rhythm, balance co-ordination. They are all so closely interwoven, and all prime essentials in the development of physical grace and loveliness.

Answers to Correspondents

Weighing Troubles
X. is in despair. She dieted well all day and found that she weighed a pound more than she did the day previous.

It wasn't a pound of fat, X. It was a pound of water which you retained. Perhaps you had some excessively salty food. There is a varying daily retention of water and sometimes it will exceed the weight of fat you lost, so the scale will register higher than the day previous, you might have lost four ounces of fat, but retained an extra eight ounces of water. Your scales would register a gain of four ounces when you had actually lost in fat. However, the next day you will probably find, if you stick to your diet, that you have gone down twice as much as you expected. Those of you who weigh every day must remember this variation in water retention; otherwise you will be discouraged.

If you have a bathroom scale—and it's a mighty good idea—have one regular day a week for counting your loss or gain, and try on the day previous to your registering day to have a diet similar to that you had the week previous on that day. Those who have bathroom scales can weigh without clothes, so they do not have to heed the precaution to wear the same weight clothes.

This once-a-week weighing will register your accumulated loss of wanted. He must first talk about something which would appeal to them. This was not easy, because the things the marines knew about and were most interested in pertained largely to matters aboard ship, concerning which Ross knew nothing. Finally, he figured the thing out: A marine, living mostly on shipboard, does not ordinarily do much walking. These men were not only obliged to do a lot of walking, but they must do it over streets littered with all kinds of rubbish and obstacles. It stood to reason that their feet must get extremely tired and sore.

So Ross talked to the marines about sore feet!

And he made a hit with them. They welcomed him among them as one who spoke their own language.

MENU HINT

Fish loaf is a good dish to take the place of meat. A good tart tasting salad is always the proper accompaniment for fish, in my estimation. A lemon pie or pudding seems appropriate, too.

Tuna Fish Loaf
Sour Cabbage Salad Creamed Peas
Lemon Pie or Pudding Coffee

TODAY'S RECIPES

Tuna Fish Loaf—The tuna fish loaf calls for one cup tuna fish picked into bits, one cup cooked rice, a white sauce made of one tablespoon butter, two and one-half tablespoons flour and one cup milk. When the white sauce is made, season to taste and add fish. Add one hard cooked egg cut into small pieces. Line a mold with well-cooked rice. Put in seasoned creamed fish. Cover with rice. Cover dish and steam for one-half hour. Unmold and serve with egg sauce.

Lemon Pie—One-half cup sugar, two tablespoons cornstarch, a pinch of salt, yolks of two eggs, juice and grated rind of a lemon, one cup hot water. Cook until smooth and thick and pour into crust that has been previously baked.

Lemon Pudding—2 cups water, one cup sugar, two tablespoons cornstarch, dissolved in water, juice of one lemon and one-half lemon. Cook in double boiler. Whip into whites of egg beaten stiff. Serves four.

SUGGESTIONS

Useful Board

The experiences of other housewives are often helpful to us. And husbands, also have a way of making work easier for their wives. "My kitchen is small, with two work tables, having cupboards underneath, and a sink (open underneath) between them. My husband made me a board to match my table tops, the proper size to fit over the sink, having cleats to hold it in place. This is very useful as it can be used to give more table room in the kitchen when serving company. Also makes a very convenient table to work at while sitting on the kitchen stool. When not used as a sink cover, this board makes a good place to put cakes and cookies hot from the oven; it can easily be carried from place to place."

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, April 6.—New York City loves Jimmie Walker. It loves Al Smith, too, but in his case, the feeling's also one of reverence.

Manhattan's affection for Mayor Walker has nothing to do with the discussion, further than that the comparison serves to bring out the more affectionate regard in which his fellow citizens hold Gov. Smith.

The distinction was drawn for me by a close personal and political friend of both men, on a visit I paid to the Empire state's metropolis, and its capital, in an effort to arrive at an estimate of Al's potentialities, among the presidential possibilities of the current year.

To be sure, my informant was a strong partisan of Smith's. It doesn't follow that the latter's New York City opponents love and revere him.

Even assuming it to be true of all New York City, it isn't necessarily true of the whole country. In fact, we know it isn't. It isn't necessarily true of the whole of New York state.

Nevertheless, it's noteworthy that the New York governor's mighty well spoken of in his own part of the world, not alone by avowed pluggers in his favor, but by many who frankly plug the other way.

I met the governor in Albany the day after the legislature's adjournment. About every other passenger on the train I took southward that night, was a home-bound state senator or assemblyman, a goodly proportion of them members of the party which had just harpooned all of Smith's pet plans for the session so recently closed.

To a man, they mentioned the governor in terms of warm liking, admiration and respect.

Not a few of them expressed the hope that he'd win the Democratic presidential nomination—and not because they believed he'd be easy to beat. On the contrary, with one voice they predicted that, if nominated, he'd make the "G. O. P." hustle as no other Democratic candidate could.

They canvassed Smith up one side and down the other.

They pronounced him the greatest "business governor" New York

ever had—a marvel as a governmental financier.

They referred to him as a water power expert whom the governors of western states, with hydroelectric problems to solve, come to Albany to consult.

How would he measure up on farm relief? The critics recalled that York State farmers used to ask that question, but he has done so well by them that they're for him every time he runs for office. Foreign affairs? What a query!

—laughed the legislators—concerning a man who has spent his life in the most thoroughly international city on earth.

It was a York State crowd, I know, unacquainted with the west and south, but, speaking for their own selection, they certainly were strong for Al Smith—and on a strictly non-partisan basis, unofficially and among themselves.

REVERENCE!

No doubt that's what his followers really feel for Al.

But there's more in it than that. They want the country to revere him, too. They're trying to hammer home the ideal that he's one of our national "immortals"—has the raw material in him to be one, anyway.

The "poor boy" stuff! Early struggles! Obstacles overcome! by tireless energy and hard work. Final graduation into the demigod class! And yet, just a common feller, to this day—no airs—no side—ONE of us—with a natural sympathy for others in the same fix he used to be in himself—cause HE knows what it's like—see?

The problem's to adapt this sketch to modern conditions.

It's needful to substitute—A city tenement for a log cabin—an old-fashioned gas jet for a pine knot—a bunch of municipal statistics for Pilgrim's Progress—Hell's Half Acre for the redskin-infested plains—a stall in a fish market for a job splitting rails.

What's got to be demonstrated is that a "man of the people" is a "man of the people," just the same, whether he was born and brought up in an urban slum or on a pioneer farm.

The bullseye Al's friends are shooting at is—the Lincoln-esque—up-to-date.

CHANGE YOUR BOY FRIEND!

I wonder whether women ever will get over their "inferiority complex" where men are concerned? We meet some modern young women who are so independent and sure of themselves that we wonder that any man has the temerity even to address them. We feel sure that at last woman has not only come to feel that she is the equal of man but his superior. Then we find that the attitude is only put on; that underneath this confident manner they are so afraid they won't be approved by the lonely male that they cringe and salaam secretly. Is there any reason, I ask, for the writer of the following letter to put up with her boy friend's insulting remarks, except her feeling that she must have done something wrong because he treats her so?

"Dear Mrs. Lee: Do you think it right for a girl to go in swimming with a boy? My best fellow begged me for weeks to go in swimming with him. I finally consented. Since then he seems to have lost all respect for me, and is constantly asking me the most insulting things.

When I resent it he simply laughs it off. What can I do to regain this boy's respect?"

"Disgraced."

All the boys and girls I know go swimming together, and I never heard of a young man taking the attitude that your friend has taken. He must be a very nasty, narrow-minded person, and if I were you I would not try to regain his respect. Get a new friend who knows how to treat a nice girl.

It is a little hard to answer you, Betty Ann B. A personal letter would be easier, but I have not your address. I would not worry about the matter of which you write if I were you, as long as you keep things as they are at present. It is very sweet to love and be loved, and I hope you will keep your romance through your college life and end it like the happy ever after.

I haven't the address you ask for, "The Joker."

Peter's Adventure

KINGBIRD CLAIMS THE HONOR

Mrs. Owen Bird gave a sharp little peck at her husband's coat. Mr. Owen Bird shook his crowed head angrily and in a moment before he really knew how it happened the little husband and wife they loved each other and were scrapping as hard as they could. Peter did not know what to do. If the matter had not been so serious he would have laughed—the two Owen Birds did look so comical hopping about in circles and scolding each other at the top of their voices.

"Kerr-r-r! Kerr-r-r!" shrill and sudden a sharp cry rang out close by. The Owen Birds heard it and in the twinkling of an eye stopped their wrangling and ran for their home as fast as they long legs would carry them, the little lady in the lead. Through the doorway of the oven they scrambled and the boy was left alone.

"Kerr-r-r! Kerr-r-r!" What is all this I hear? Eagle king? Absurd! Wren king? Ridiculous! I am king. There is no doubt at all about it.

Peter had jumped up from the stone at the first shrill scream and with these last words a bird alighted upon the spot he had vacated. The newcomers beak was large and sharp and hooked at the base, and looked almost as cruel as Butcher Bird's had. He was dressed in good taste, was this new comer. With a slate colored coat he wore a white vest and there was a wide band of white upon the tip of his tail. But it was his crest that was the most startling thing about him.

The bird seemed to be in a bad humor, and kept ruffling up the feathers on his head and every time he did it he showed a top-knot as red as fire.

"KERR-R-R! WHAT IS THIS I HEAR? I AM KING! I SCREAMED A SHRILL VOICE."

is the third time I have told you that. If you mean my last name, though, that is a different matter. It is long and ugly and I hardly ever use it. It is hard to remember, too. Let me see if I can think of it. Tyrannine! There, do you know any more than you did? I'll bet anything that you will never think of it again. Why not forget it and just think of me as Kingbird the Flycatcher?

Next: "Flycatcher Frightens Off the Thief."

A chain store buyer, purchasing in million quantities, must make no mistakes. The things he buys must move rapidly off the shelves, for huge sales volume is necessary where the profit is a fraction of a cent on an article, and chain stores cannot allow huge inventories to pile up.

The buyer showed me figures indicating the average yearly profit of each store in the larger 10-cent chains. A Woolworth store in 1927 averaged $22,359 profit; a Kress store, $33,131; a Kress, $27,808, and a McCrory, $11,926. Just a few of the buyers are stationed in New York. The company first referred to has permanent representatives in all large countries. The staff buys not only for shops in the United States, but for units in England, Canada, Cuba and Germany, so that its knowledge of human nature must be international and catholic.

Along Broadway a good girl is indicated as "pre-war."

Stories are getting around about display of temper of Charles A. Lindbergh, the more or less known flier; and it is these stories that are responsible for rumors that he is on the verge of a breakdown.

As a matter of fact, he is in perfect physical condition.

The only time he displays anger is when persons insist upon crowding around and touching him. Many otherwise intelligent persons apparently are consumed with a desire to be able to say, "I stuck my finger in Lindy's eye, and tore his coat." Not long ago, the flier flared up and nearly struck a man who insisted on pawing him, but got control of himself in time. "I don't see how persons can be so rude," he complained to a companion.

At a private affair in an exclusive Long Island home, where he had been assured by his hostess that he could come incognito and "be himself," there were several dinner tables. As news spread that Lindy was present, guests, representatives of the highest aristocracy and supposedly of the best breeding, left their chairs and plates to gather behind Lindy's and gaze at him. His hostess showed her distress and tried to shoos them away, then asked the flier if he would prefer to leave. "Slim," to allay her embarrassment, said he didn't mind. A moment later a dowager burst upon him, enveloped him in her arms and gave him a kiss. "Slim" arose and without a word departed.

A Problem in Conversation

I remember having once a difficult newspaper assignment which took me to a cattle ranch out West. There were two cowboys there with whom I was obliged to make myself solid, for I desired information which they alone could give me. This seemed like a woefully difficult task, for I was a tenderfoot and they were more likely to laugh at me, I feared, than to confide in me. But I quietly looked about for the proper sort of topical fulcrum.

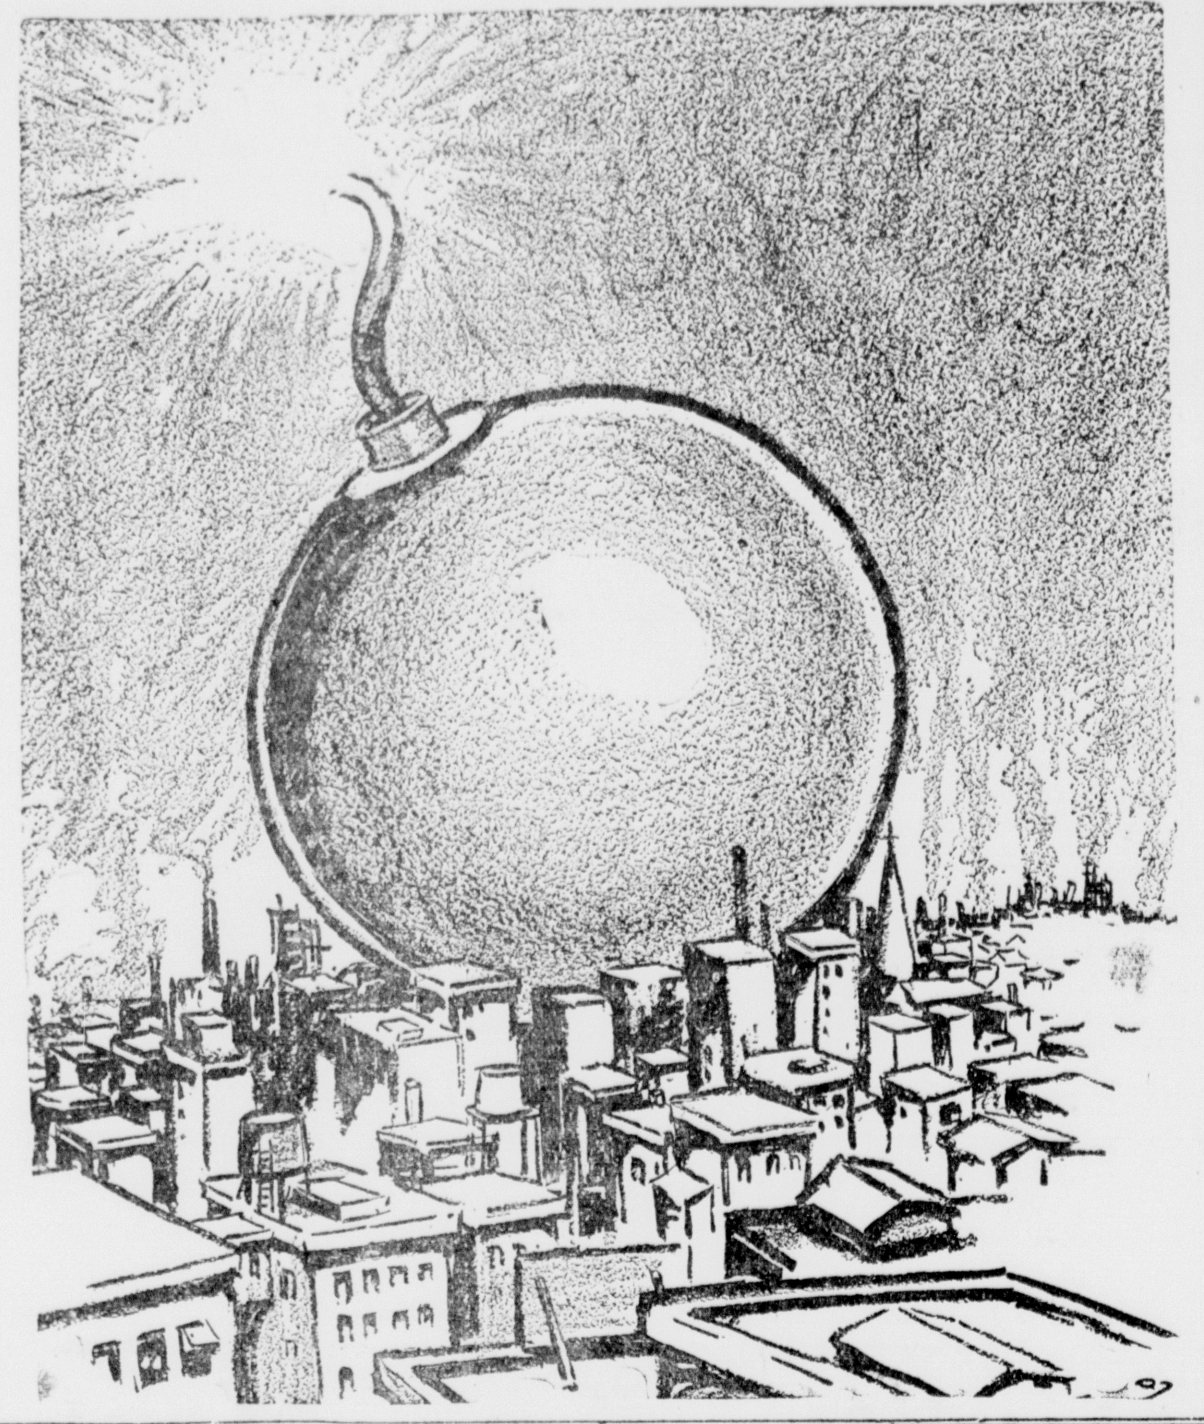

Among other things, I chanced to note that there was a division of opinion among the cowboys as to whether it was better to have double girls or a single girl on a saddle. Moreover, I heard arguments about the wearing qualities of two different brands of overalls. I found it a point to find out what brand of overalls my two men wore, and how they felt about single or double girls. It happened that both men were in sympathy with the double girl cause, and I accordingly found opportunity to remark casually to one of them that I was surprised to see so many men, otherwise intelligent, who rode on saddles having only a single girl. I said that it seemed to me that two girls would not only be a great deal safer for the rider, but vastly better for the horse.

"You've said something, old partner," agreed the cowboy. "A man couldn't give me a saddle with only one girl on it."

And from that time on we rapidly became friends. Then he and the other man and I took up the overalls question. My point of view was in such accord with theirs that our chumminess grew.

That reminds me of a little episode at the time of the San Francisco earthquake, to cover which a reporter named Ross was sent out by his newspaper. Ross learned that United States marines had been landed in the city to maintain martial law and stop looting. Certain members of one company of marines had witnessed a kind of human interest scene which he wished to learn about. But he knew he would get little detailed information if he merely went to members of the company and asked them point-blank for what he

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

Balance and Its Importance to Rhythm

Rhythmic movement is founded on balance. For that matter, most of the beautiful things in the world are founded on that precious principle. But it is physical balance I want to speak of now.

There are several very simple exercises which will teach you how to balance your weight when standing so that you don't throw one hip out of line, how to balance so that you can rise easily and gracefully instead of struggling to your feet. Begin in the correct starting position. Hands on hips. Raise the right knee little by little in four staccato counts. I do not mean that the counts are to be quick, the movements are. Divide the movement into four definite counts. Alternate first the right, then the left leg.

last is also a marvellous reducing exercise, and by the time you have learned to complete a good graceful exercise, you will find that "balance" is so thoroughly ingrained in your system that the other more strenuous activities (which will follow) will be quite simple. An old and even less complicated exercise is to tap the right foot in a semi circle, ankle stretched; body very firm and straight, counting eight taps, not too fast, to each movement. Your weight, of course, is on the left foot.

When you have mastered the balance step, begin clapping eight times to the eight beats of your foot movement, one clap to each beat. If you find it easy, you are singularly fortunate. Another thing you will find very helpful is to jump with the opposite foot on the last count of the movement. Rhythm, balance and coordination. They are all so closely interwoven, and all prime essentials in the development of physical grace and loveliness.

Answers to Correspondents Weighing Troubles

X. is in despair. She dieted well all day and found that she weighed a pound more than she did the day previous.

It wasn't a pound of fat, X. It was a pound of water which you retained. Perhaps you had eaten excessively salty food. There is a varying daily retention of water and sometimes it will exceed the weight of fat you lose, so the scale registers higher than the day previous, you might have lost four ounces of fat, but retained an extra eight ounces of water. Your scales would register a gain of four ounces when you had actually lost in fat. However, the next day you will probably find, if you stick to your diet, that you have gone down twice as much as you expected. Those of you who weigh every day must remember this variation in water retention; otherwise you will be discouraged.

If you have a bathroom scale—and it's a mighty good idea—have one regular day a week for counting your loss or gain, and try on the day previous to your registering day to have a diet similar to the one you had the week previous on that day. Those who have bathroom scales can weigh without clothes, so they do not have to heed the precaution to wear the same weight clothes.

This once-a-week weighing will register your accumulated loss of wanted. He must first talk about something which would appeal to them. This was not easy, because the things the marines knew about and were most interested in pertained largely to matters aboard ship, concerning which Ross knew nothing. Finally, he figured the thing out: A marine, living mostly on shipboard, does not ordinarily do much walking. These men were not only obliged to do a lot of walking, but they must do it over streets littered with all kinds of rubbish and obstacles. It stood to reason that their feet must get extremely tired and sore.

So Ross talked to the marines about sore feet!

And he made a hit with them. They welcomed him among them as one who spoke their own language.

fat for the week, and it should be greater than a daily retention of water. If you do not lose during a week's time, then you can know you are not limiting your calories sufficiently.

For those who need them, we have instructions on how to reduce and ten cents in coin for this pamphlet.

Ruptured Ear Drums
Mrs. F.—It is true that if there is inflammation with pus back of the ear drum, Nature will usually cause the drum to rupture where the pressure is great enough. However, it is very undesirable to let Nature be your surgeon, for the spontaneous rupture is usually ragged and large, while a clean incision made by a skillful physician can be made in the most desirable place, and it heals much more rapidly.

Many people have an idea that if the ear drum is punctured, it always remains open. This is not true. The ear drum heals just as does any other tissue in the body, under the right treatment.

There is another very vital thing to be thought of in connection with inflammation of the inner ear, and that is that the inflammation may extend. It may bore into the mastoid cells back of the ear, and a mastoid abscess result, or into the brain.

You must see an ear specialist, Mrs. F., for your ear trouble. You must not wait for a natural healing; it may never come, and last, inflammation and deafness result.

How Soon Does Running Water Purify Itself?

There is an old idea which hangs on with persistence, that if river or stream water is not pure, it will purify itself after it has run a dozen miles or so, through the oxygen which it accumulates.

Now while it is true that running water will go through this phenomenon of self-purification, it would have to run several hundred miles to do it. There is really no river in the United States that can be regarded as hygienically safe, without treatment, to be used as drinking water, even though it had no pollution along its course.

Chemist Emory J. Theriault is authority for this statement. He

MENU HINT

Fish loaf is a good dish to take the place of meat. A good tart, tasting salad is always the proper accompaniment for fish, in my estimation. A lemon pie or pudding seems appropriate, too.

Tuna Fish Loaf
Sour Cabbage Salad, Creamed Peas, Lemon Pie or Pudding Coffee

TODAY'S RECIPES

Tuna Fish Loaf—The tuna fish loaf calls for one cup tuna fish, one cup corn, one cup cooked rice, a white sauce made of one tablespoon butter, two and one-half tablespoons flour and one cup milk. When the white sauce is made, season to taste and add fish. Add one hard cooked egg cut into small pieces. Line a mold with well-cooked rice. Put in seasoned creamed fish. Cover with rice. Cover dish and steam for one-half hour. Unmold and serve with egg sauce.

Lemon Pie—One-half cup sugar, two tablespoons cornstarch, a pinch of salt, yolks of two eggs, juice and grated rind of a lemon, one cup hot water. Cook until smooth and thick and pour into crust that has been previously baked.

Lemon Pudding—2 cups water, one cup sugar, two tablespoons cornstarch, dissolved in water, juice of one and one-half lemons. Cook in double boiler. Whip into whites of egg beaten stiff. Serves four.

SUGGESTIONS

Useful Board

The experiences of other housewives are often helpful to us. And husbands, also have a way of making work easier for their wives.

"My kitchen is small, with two work tables, having cupboards underneath, and a sink (open underneath) between them. My husband made me a board to match my table tops, the proper size to fit over the sink, having cleats to hold it in place. This is very useful as it can be used to give more room in the kitchen when serving company. Also makes a very convenient table to work at while sitting on the kitchen stool.

When not used as a sink cover, this board makes a good place to put cakes and cookies hot from the oven; it can easily be carried from place to place."

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, April 6.—New York City loves Jimmie Walker.

It loves Al Smith, too, but in his case, the feeling's also one of reverence.

Manhattan's affection for Mayor Walker has nothing to do with this discussion, further than that the comparison serves to bring out the more affectionate regard in which his fellow citizens hold Gov. Smith.

The distinction was drawn for me by a close personal and political friend of both men, on a visit I paid to the Empire state's metropolis, and its capital, in an effort to arrive at an estimate of Al's possibilities, among the presidential possibilities of the current year.

To be sure, my informant was a strong partisan of Smith's.

It doesn't follow that the latter's New York City opponents love and revere him.

Even assuming it to be true of all New York City, it isn't necessarily true of the whole country. In fact, we know it isn't. It isn't necessarily true of the whole of New York state.

Nevertheless, it's noteworthy that the New York governor's mighty well spoken of in his own part of the world, not alone by avowed pluggers in his favor, but by many who frankly plug the other way.

I met the governor in Albany the day after the legislature's adjournment. About every other passenger on the train I took southward that night was a home-war-bound state senator or assemblyman, a goodly proportion of them members of the party which had just harpooned all of Smith's pet plans for the session so recently closed.

To a man, they mentioned the governor in terms of warm liking, admiration and respect.

Not a few of them expressed the hope that he'd win the Democratic presidential nomination, and not because they believed he'd be easy to beat. On the contrary, with one voice they predicted that, if nominated, he'd make the "G. O. P." hustle as no other Democratic candidate could.

They dismissed Smith up one side and down the other.

They pronounced him the greatest "business governor" New York

ever had—a marvel as a governmental financier.

They referred to him as a water power expert whom the governors of western states, with hydroelectric problems to solve, come to Albany to consult.

How would he measure up on farm relief? The critics recalled that York State farmers used to ask that question, but he has done so well by them that they're for him every time he runs for office.

Foreign affairs? What a query!—laughed the legislators—concerning a man who has spent his life in the most thoroughly international city on earth. It was a York State crowd, I know, unacquainted with the west and south, but, speaking for their own selection, they certainly were strong for Al Smith—and on a strictly non-partisan basis, unofficially and among themselves.

REVERENCE!

No doubt that's what his followers really feel for Al.

But there's more in it than that. They want the country to revere him, too. They're trying to hammer home the ideal that he's one of our national "immortals"—has the raw material in him to be one, anyway.

The "poor boy" stuff! Early struggles! Obstacles overcome!—by tireless energy and hard work. Final graduation into the demigod class! And yet, just a common feller, to this day!—no airs—no side—ONE of us—with a natural sympathy for others, and if the same fix he used to be in himself—'cause HE knows what it's like—see?

The problem's to adapt this sketch to modern conditions.

It's needful to substitute—A city tenement for a log cabin—an old-fashioned gas jet for a pine knot—a bunch of municipal statistics for Pilgrim's Progress—Hell's Half Acre for the redskin-infested plains—a stall in a fish market for a job splitting rails.

What's got to be demonstrated is that a "man of the people" is a "man of the people" just the same, whether he was born and brought up in an urban slum or on a pioneer farm.

The bullseye Al's friends are shooting at is—the Lincoln-esque—up-to-date.

CHANGE YOUR BOY FRIEND

I wonder whether women ever will get over their "inferiority complex" where men are concerned? We meet some modern young women who are so independent and sure of themselves that we wonder that any man has the temerity even to address them. We feel sure that at last woman has not only come to feel that she is the equal of man but his superior.

Then we find that the attitude is only put on; that underneath this confident manner they are so afraid they will not be approved by the lordly male that they cringe and salaam secretly. Is there any reason, I ask, for the writer of the following letter to put up with her boy friend's insulting remarks, except her feeling that she must have done something wrong because he treats her so?

"Dear Mrs. Lee: Do you think it right for a girl to go in swimming with a boy? My best fellow began how it was for weeks to go in swimming with him. I finally consented. Since then he seems to have lost all respect for me, and is constantly asking me the most insulting things.

"Disgraced."

All the boys and girls I know go swimming together, and I never heard of a young man taking the attitude that your friend has taken. He must be a very nasty, narrow-minded person, and if I were you I would not try to regain his respect. Get a new friend who knows how to treat a nice girl.

It is a little hard to answer you, Betty Ann B. A personal letter would be easier, but I have not your address. I would not worry about the matter of which you write if I were you, as long as you keep things as they are at present. It is very sweet to love and be loved, and I hope you will keep your romance through your college life and end it like the fairy stories—and they lived happily ever after.

I haven't the address you ask for, "The Joker."

Peter's Adventure

KINGBIRD CLAIMS THE HONOR

Mrs. Oven Bird gave a sharp little peck at her husband's coat. Mr. Oven Bird shook his crowned head angrily and in a moment my best fellow knew how it happened. The little husband and wife had forgotten all about how deadly they loved each other and were scrapping as hard as they could.

Peter did not know what to do. If the matter had not been so serious he would have laughed at the two Oven Birds did look so comical hopping about in circles and scolding each other at the top of their voices.

"Kerr-r-r! Kerr-r-r!" shrill and sudden a sharp cry rang out close by. The Oven Birds heard it and in the twinkling of an eye stopped their wrangling and ran for their home as fast as they long legs would carry them, the little lady in the lead. Through the doorway of the oven they scrambled and the boy was left alone.

"Kerr-r-r! Kerr-r-r!" What is all this I hear? Eagle king? Ab-surd! Wren king? Ridiculous! I am king. There is no doubt at all about it.

Peter had jumped up from the stone at the first sharp scream and with these last words a bird alighted upon the spot he had vacated. The new comer's beak was large and sharp and hooked at the base, and looked almost as cruel as Butcher Bird's had. He was dressed in good taste, was this newcomer. With a slate colored coat he wore a white vest and there was a wide band of white upon the tip of his tail. But it was his crest that was the most startling thing about him.

The bird seemed to be in a bad humor, and kept ruffling up the feathers on his head, and every time he did it he showed a top-knot as red as fire.

"No doubt about it at all!" repeated the fierce fellow, and Peter thought it best not to argue with him. "Of course not!" agreed the boy. "You look like a bird of your word. Who did you say you were?"

"You heard me!" The newcomer was quite rude. "I am King. I just told you so."

"Yes, Yes, of course. But I mean what is your name?"

"Everybody calls me Kingbird. My, but you are quite stupid, This is the third time I have told you that. If you mean my last name, though, that is a different matter. It is long and ugly and I hardly ever use it. It is hard to remember, too. Let me see if I can think of it. Tyrannine! There, do you know any more than you did? I'll bet anything that you will never think of it again

"KERR-R-R! WHAT IS THIS I HEAR? TAM KING! I SCREAMED A SHRILL VOICE."

REGAN WILL PITCH FOR MASSILLON IN TWO-STATE LEAGUE

Lee Regan, Xenia pitcher, who hurled effectively for Osborn last season, is to receive a tryout with Massillon, O., of the Ohio-Pennsylvania League this season and admirers of the local boy are convinced he will make a valuable addition to the Massillon pitching staff.

Regan will be permitted to pitch one of two exhibition games Massillon has arranged to play with Canton, O., Central League team, on the former's diamond April 21 and 22.

If the Xenian makes a creditable showing, he will be expected to report for the opening of the Massillon training season May 2. The league season will open May 23. Regan pitched the entire season with Osborn in what was known as the Buckeye League last season. Pitching against the Xenia reserves during the season, he hurled shutout ball for six innings before his team went to pieces defensively. Several weeks before he shut out the strong Dayton Police nine with two or three hits despite numerous errors by his teammates.

SOPHOMORES BEAT FACULTY LOOP TEAM

Central High School sophomores barely notched out a close victory over the faculty team in the school intra-mural softball league by a score of 11 to 10 Thursday afternoon at Cox Memorial Athletic Field.

A seven-inning contest was played.

E. G. Whitworth pitched for the faculty while John Hurley did the hurrying for the sophomores. Both were hit hard at times.

Unable to muster sufficient players for the game, the faculty accepted the "loan" of three members of the sophomore squad. The sophs later regretted their generosity for a time as the three borrowed players performed above expectations and almost enabled the faculty to turn in a victory.

Bowling

Hollis Peterson, member of the Red Wing Co. bowling team, established a new City League record for individual high three-game total as his team made a clean sweep of its three games with the Brown Furniture Co. Thursday night.

Peterson rolled a fine series of 650, bettering the former mark of 628, held by William Moorehead, of the Downtown Country Club team, by twenty-two pins. He bowled consistently with games of 217, 219 and 214. Smith led the Browns with 563.

REGAN WILL PITCH FOR MASSILLON IN TWO-STATE LEAGUE

Lee Regan, Xenia pitcher, who hurled effectively for Osborn last season, is to receive a tryout with Massillon, O. of the Ohio-Pennsylvania League this season and admirers of the local boy are convinced he will make a valuable addition to the Massillon pitching staff.

Regan will be permitted to pitch one of two exhibition games Massillon has arranged to play with Canton, O., Central League team, on the former's diamond April 21 and 22.

If the Xenian makes a creditable showing, he will be expected to report for the opening of the Massillon training season May 2. The league season will open May 23.

Regan pitched the entire season with Osborn in what was known as the Buckeye League last season. Pitching against the Xenia Reserves during the season, he hurled shutout ball for six innings before his team went to pieces defensively.

Several weeks before he shut out the strong Dayton Police nine with two or three hits despite numerous errors by his teammates.

Bothered at times by a bad arm, Regan declares the member has responded to treatment and he is confident of making the Massillon nine.

SOPHOMORES BEAT FACULTY LOOP TEAM

Central High School sophomores barely notched out a close victory over the faculty team in the school intra-mural softball league by a score of 11 to 10 Thursday afternoon at Cox Memorial Athletic Field.

A seven-inning contest was played.

E. G. Whitworth pitched for the faculty while John Hurley did the hurrying for the sophomores. Both were hit hard at times.

Unable to muster sufficient players for the game, the faculty accepted the "loan" of three members of the sophomore squad. The sophs later regretted their generosity for a time as the three borrowed players performed above expectations and almost enabled the faculty to turn in a victory.

Bowling

Hollis Peterson, member of the Red Wing Co. bowling team, established a new City League record for individual high three-game total as his team made a clean sweep of its three games with the Brown Furniture Co. Thursday night.

Peterson rolled a fine series of 650, bettering the former mark of 628, held by William Moorehead, of the Downtown Country Club team, by twenty-two pins. He bowled consistently with games of 217, 219 and 214. Smith led the Browns with 563.

Creamed Comments On S.S. Lesson

The resurrection of Christ is the central column of the gospel on which all rests; it was a spiritual achievement of supreme significance; it was a unique expression of his divinity and the crown that completed a perfect life.

V 1—"And when the Sabbath was past, Mary Magdalene and Mary the mother of James and Salome, brought spices that they might come and anoint him. These women had profound regard for the Sabbath; it was a holy motive that caused them to undertake a superhuman task the first thing in the morning; they proceeded undisturbed by the impelling motive regardless of barriers such as a stone before the sepulcher. Love never halts.

V 4—"And, looking up, they see that the stone is rolled back; for it was exceeding great." A combination of spiritual and material forces, are combined and effective today, but only seen by those who have eyes to see them.

V 5—"And entering into the tomb, they saw a young man sitting on the right hand, arrayed in a white robe; and they were amazed. This young man is also described as an angel.

"In the light of our Lord's tomb, we may learn that the tomb is the birthplace of unaging youth. They saw a young man—just as if one of the lads living in the Eternal Hills had come down into an earthly grave and said 'I am a specimen of the citizens of the invisible Land. The oldest of our folks are the youngest. Youth is courteous in our country. I never saw an old person there.'—Dr. Frederick P. Shanon.

Vs. 6, 7—"And he saith unto them he is not amazed; ye seek Jesus, the Nazarene, who hath been crucified; he is risen; he is not here; behold the place where they laid him! But go tell his disciples and Peter, he goeth before you into Galilee; there ye shall see him as he said unto you." "Fear not" is God's message to the terrified. God knows our desires and purposes which count as much as deeds. The facts of revelation, such as the resurrection, is made evident by voices other than human; the weak faith within when exercised is reinforced, the only explanation being that God has operated on us. The purpose of a reinforced faith is spreading the good news of a resurrected Christ.

V 8—"And they went out, and fled from the tomb." What a great opportunity they lost because they feared. They might have asked about loved ones in heaven, something about the eternal home, and something about God.

V 19—"And so the Lord Jesus was received up into heaven and sat down at the right hand of God." The ascension of Christ is the climax of his resurrection. We are not to look into the grave for the resurrected life; we must look up.

V 26—"And they went forth and preached everywhere, the Lord working with them and confirming the word by signs that followed." The most civilized lands today are those dominated by Christianity because the truth of this verse is operative.

Home Education

NERVOUSNESS IN CHILDREN

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, Chicago commissioner of health says, "most nervous children become so because of a wrong attitude on the part of their parents. When the parents themselves are nervous, they set an example, and it is usually followed. They do not permit the child to lead a life of his own, and either push him too hard or do all the thinking for him."

"Parents may add to a child's nervousness by:

- 1—Being nervous themselves.
- 2—Always telling the child how nervous he is.
- 3—Telling other people in his presence how nervous, queer and odd he is.
- 4—Worrying over his health and habits.
- 5—Worrying him with their worries over him.
- 6—Coddling him physically and mentally.
- 7—Denying him independence of thought and action.
- 8—Expecting too much of him."

Discussion on Questions S.S. Lesson

1. What are the proofs of the resurrection of Christ?
2. What are the proofs that Christ lives today?
3. Why is the religion of Christ the greatest religion in the world?
4. How do we know that faith in a resurrected Christ means a resurrected life for a believer?
5. On what grounds did Paul rest his faith in the resurrection of Christ?
6. Why is the trend of present-day thinking especially favorable to belief in immortality?

CLERICUS SAYS—"The best attested fact in history is the resurrection of Christ. No Christian can doubt it, and no blasphemer can explain it away. Belief in it is the test of saving faith. It is the assurance of immortality."

LESSON PRAYER—O Lord, we praise thee, we magnify thee, we glorify thee, the resurrected one. We can do no less than believe that thou art the son of the living God. Give us the victory over death and the grave that we may live with thee forever.

BOOK REVIEW
WELSHIMER'S SERMONS—by P. H. Welshimer, twenty-six years minister of the First Christian Church, Canton, Ohio, consists of twenty sermons covering a wide range, delivered by a busy minister to his own people. They all set forth the beauty of the life of Christ, stressing the great fundamental doctrines of the New Testament and present the practical and spiritual aspect of Christianity. Of genuine interest to all people. Published by The Standard Publishing Co., Eighth, Ninth and Cutter Sts., Cincinnati, O. Price $1.50.

CHILDREN'S PRAYERS* RECORDED BY THEIR MOTHER, The Pilgrim Press, 14 Beacon St., Boston, Mass. $1.25. As suggested by the title the book contains a record of her own children's prayers, and the development of their spiritual lives from babyhood to ten years, we watch with deep reverence and inspiration. A challenge to other mothers and workers with children!

WHAT DO YOU CONSIDER SOME OF THE TESTS OF REAL WORSHIP IN THE CHURCH SCHOOL?

First—when the order of service of worship has been definitely planned, with all parts carefully assigned, all participants knowing their contribution, and willingly, joyfully entering into the period of fellowship with God.

Second—when the program is definitely presented to all by means of a blackboard, printed or mimeographed copies—thus fastening the attention of all on the thought movements in the worship.

Third—when the conditions are worshipful—a clean room, chairs in place, proper temperature, correct ventilation, good lighting, Bible and hymn books easily accessible, a worshipful attitude of the leaders, a worshipful attitude of the room as made by proper decorations, pictures and furnishings.

Fourth—when personal participation is at its best; individual attitudes make or mar the worship; all should enter into the service of worship devoutly, with appreciative, understanding and submissive spirit, being quiet, orderly, and reverent from the beginning to the end.

WHY IS IT THAT THERE ARE SO MANY MISSIONARY CUTS ANNUALLY BY THE PROTESTANT CHURCHES OF AMERICA?—A leading returned missionary answers by saying: "The reaction now to be found in the private expressions of many trained minds is that we have rushed too violently into this missionary enterprise, but that it has been too largely one of spiritual emotion not based upon extensive information."

World Religious News

The International Convention of the Disciples of Christ will be held at Columbus, O., April 17-22.

According to the American Bible Society, more than half the world is living in homes that have no Bibles.

Dr. Robert Speer calls attention to the fact that in 50 years the number of missionary societies (for foreign work) in the United States has increased from 21 to 122, the number of missionaries supported from 1,228 to 12,300 and the annual contributions for this work from $1,800,000 to $40,000,000.

Rev. Samuel D. Price, who has been the assistant secretary of the World's Sunday School Association, was made Associate General Secretary on the resignation of Dr. W. G. Landes, who has become General Secretary of the New York State Association.

The total membership of the Church in the world is approximately 570,000,000. Of this total 274,000,000 is Roman Catholic, 122,000,000 Eastern Orthodox, and 170,000,000 Protestant. There are more than 200 separate church bodies. Of the Protestant church membership about 70,000,000 is Lutheran, 12,000,000 Presbyterian, 11,000,000 Methodist, 10,000,000 Baptist, 1,700,000 Disciples.

Of the dozen statues competing for the honor of commemorating the pioneer woman of Oklahoma the only figure carrying a Bible was finally chosen. Vote was taken in cities throughout the country where the statues were shown. The winning figure, by Bryant Baker, depicts a comely woman under 30, sunbonnet and of resolute carriage who walks with a long stride while leading by the hand a little boy on their way to worship. E. W. Marland, Ponca City oil man, has given $25,000 to make a 50-foot figure of the model.

SENTENCED TO JAIL FOR NON-SUPPORT

Pleading guilty to a charge of non-support, Charles Eldon Perrill, Dayton, O., was fined $10 and costs and sentenced to thirty days in the County Jail by Probate Judge S. C. Wright Friday morning.

Perrill was arrested and returned to Xenia Thursday by Probation Officer J. E. Watts on a warrant sworn out by Ruth Perrill, Yellow Springs, charging he failed to contribute to the support of his minor child, Gloria Ruth, 3, between March 6, 1928 and March 21, 1928.

THE DUTY OF MAN

George Washington said, "It is the duty of nations as well as of men, to own their dependence upon the overruling power of God; to confess their sins and transgressions in humble sorrow, yet with the assured hope that genuine repentance will lead to mercy and pardon; and to recognize the sublime truth announced in the Holy Scriptures and proven by all history that those nations only are blessed whose God is the Lord."

The church is the only institution that provides a program for the exercise and expressions of the duty of men and nations as indicated by the Father of Our Country. Why not accept the invitation and COME TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY?

Creamed Comments On S.S. Lesson

The resurrection of Christ is the central column of the gospel on which all rests; it was a spiritual achievement of supreme significance; it was a unique expression of his divinity and the crown that completed a perfect life.

V 1—"And when the Sabbath was past, Mary Magdalene and Mary the mother of James and Salome, brought spices that they might come and anoint him. These women had profound regard for the Sabbath; it was a holy motive that caused them to undertake a superhuman task the first thing in the morning; they proceeded dominated by the impelling motive, regardless of barriers such as a stone before the sepulcher. Love never fails.

V 4—"And, looking up, they see that the stone is rolled back; for it was exceeding great." A combination of spiritual and material forces are combined and effective today, but only seen by those who have eyes to see them.

V 5—"And entering into the tomb, they saw a young man sitting on the right hand, arrayed in a white robe; and they were amazed." This young man is also described as an angel.

"In the light of our Lord's tomb, we may learn that the tomb is the birthplace of unquenching youth. They saw a young man—just as if one of the lads living in the Eternal Hills had come down into an earthly grave and said 'I am a specimen of the citizens of the Invisible Land. The oldest of our folks are the youngest. Youth is courteous in our country. I never saw an old person there.'—Dr. Frederick P. Shannon.

Vs. 6, 7—"And he saith unto them he is not amazed; ye seek Jesus, the Nazarene, who hath been crucified; he is risen; he is not here; behold the place where they laid him! But go tell his disciples and Peter, he saith unto you in Galilee; there ye shall see him as he said unto you." "Fear not" is God's message to the terrified. God knows our desires and purposes which count as much as deeds. The facts of revelation, such as the resurrection, is made evident by voices other than human; the weak faith within when exercised is reinforced, the only explanation being that God has operated on us. The purpose of a reinforced faith is spreading the good news of a resurrected Christ.

V 8—"And they went out, and fled from the tomb." What a great opportunity they lost because they feared. They might have asked about loved ones in heaven, something about the eternal home, and something about God.

V 19—"And so the Lord Jesus was received up into heaven and sat down at the right hand of God." The ascension of Christ is the climax of his resurrection. We are not to look into the grave for the resurrected life; we must look up.

V 20—"And they went forth and preached everywhere, the Lord working with them and confirming

Home Education

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, Chicago commissioner of health says, "most nervous children become so because of a wrong attitude on the part of their parents. When the parents themselves are nervous, they set an example, and it is usually followed. They do not permit the child to lead a life of his own, and either push him too hard or do all the thinking for him."

"Parents may add to a child's nervousness by:

- 1—Being nervous themselves.
- 2—Always telling the child how nervous he is.
- 3—Telling other people in his presence how nervous, queer and odd he is.
- 4—Worrying over his health and habits.
- 5—Worrying him with their worries over him.
- 6—Coddling him physically and mentally.
- 7—Denying him independence of thought and action.
- 8—Expecting too much of him."

Discussion on Questions S.S. Lesson

1. What are the proofs of the resurrection of Christ?
2. What are the proofs that Christ lives today?
3. Why is the religion of Christ the greatest religion in the world?
4. How do we know that faith in a resurrected Christ means a resurrected life for a believer?
5. On what grounds did Paul rest his faith in the resurrection of Christ?
6. Why is the trend of present-day thinking especially favorable to belief in immortality?
7. CLERICUS SAYS: "The best attested fact in history is the resurrection of Christ. No Christian can doubt it, and no blasphemer can explain it away. Belief in it is the test of saving faith. It is the assurance of immortality."
8. LESSON PLAYERS—O Lord, we praise thee, we magnify thee, we glorify thee, the resurrected one. We can do no less than believe that thou art the son of the living God. Give us the victory over death and the grave that we may live with thee forever.

BOOK REVIEW

WELSHIMER'S SERMONS—by P. H. Welshimer, twenty-six years minister of the First Christian Church, Canton, Ohio, consists of twenty sermons covering a wide range, delivered by a busy minister to his own people. They all set forth the beauty of the life of Christ, stressing the great fundamental doctrines of the New Testament and present the practical and spiritual aspect of Christianity. Of genuine interest to all people. Published by The Standard Publishing Co., Eighth, Ninth and Citter Sts., Cincinnati, O. Price $1.50.

CHILDREN'S PRAYERS—RECORDED BY THEIR MOTHER, The Pilgrim Press, 14 Beacon St., Boston, Mass., $1.25. As suggested by the title the book contains a record of her own children's prayers. She has four stalwart boys and the development of their spiritual lives from babyhood to ten years, we watch with deep reverence and inspiration. A challenge to other mothers and workers with children!

Fourth—when personal participation is at its best; individual attitudes make or mar the worship; all should enter into the service of worship devoutly, with appreciative, understanding and submissive spirit, being quiet, orderly, and reverent from the beginning to the end.

World Religious News

The International Convention of the Disciples of Christ will be held at Columbus, O., April 17-22.

According to the American Bible Society, more than half the world is living in homes that have no Bibles.

Dr. Robert Speer calls attention to the fact that in 50 years the number of missionary societies (for foreign work) in the United States has increased from 21 to 122, the number of missionaries supported from 1,228 to 12,300 and the annual contributions for this work from $1,800,000 to $40,000,000.

Rev. Samuel D. Price, who has been the assistant secretary of the World's Sunday School Association, made Associate General Secretary of the organization of Dr. C. L. Lester, who has become General Secretary of the New York State Association.

The total membership of the Church in the world is approximately 570,000,000. Of this total 274,000,000 is Roman Catholic, 122,000,000 Eastern Orthodox, and 15,000,000 Protestant. There are more than 200 separate church bodies. Of the Protestant church membership about 70,000,000 is Lutheran, 12,000,000 Presbyterian, 11,000,000 Methodist, 10,000,000 Baptist, 1,700,000 Disciples.

Of the dozen states competing for the honor of commemorating the pioneer women of Oklahoma the only figure carrying a Bible was finally chosen. Vote was taken in cities throughout the country where the statutes were shown. The winning figure, by Bryant Baker, depicts a comely woman under 30, unbonneted and of resolute carriage who walks with a long stride while leading by the hand a little boy on their way to worship. E. W. Marland, Ponca City oil man, has given $50,000 to make a 50-foot figure of the model.

The Church Invites You

THE DUTY OF MAN

George Washington said, "It is the duty of nations as well as of men, to own their dependence upon the overruling power of God; to confess their sins and transgressions in humble sorrow, yet with the assured hope that genuine repentance will lead to mercy and pardon; and to recognize the sublime truth announced in the Holy Scriptures and proven by all history that those nations only are blessed whose God is the Lord."

The church is the only institution that provides a program for the exercise and expressions of the duty of men and nations as indicated by the Father of Our Country. Why not accept the invitation and COME TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY?

THREE PRISONERS TAKEN TO COLUMBUS TO BEGIN SENTENCES

Lawrence J. Leiber, Syracuse, N. Y., Fred Thompson, formerly of Chicago, Ill., and Fred Posey colored, this city, were taken to Ohio Penitentiary at Columbus, O., by Sheriff Ohmer Tate to begin serving prison sentences imposed in Common Pleas Court on grand jury indictments.

Leiber and Thompson face terms of one to fifteen years on indictments for burglary and larceny and additional sentences of from one to three years for carrying concealed weapons.

They were implicated in an unsuccessful attempt to rob the Ervin Milling Co.

Posey, his parole revoked by the court following his indictment by the grand jury for cutting with intent to wound, must serve out an old sentence of from one to fifteen years.

CLINTON COUNTY PRISONER ADMITS RAIL STATION ROBBERY

Sought in seven counties as a fugitive from justice, Joseph Carr, held in the Clinton County Jail, is said to have confessed to a long list of crimes, including many burglaries and robberies.

The confession was made in the presence of C. C. Busmeyer, Xenia, lieutenant of Pennsylvania Railroad police; Prosecutor C. L. Swain and Sheriff Will Smith, of Clinton County, and Special American Express Agent William T. Crosby.

Carr, according to his confession, robbed the Pennsylvania Railroad station at South Charleston of two trunks valued at $800, which were thrown on a lawn near the depot and later taken in an auto to the home of George Jacobs, Bellbrook Pike, Greene County.

Jacobs, who Carr charged with being his partner in many crimes, was arrested in January by Greene County authorities and removed to Hamilton.

The loot obtained from the trunks included six pairs of shoes, a red sweater, a checkered wool shirt, two dozen pairs of women's hose, two raincoats and eight suits of women's silk underwear, according to Carr, who said Jacobs also stole a radio battery from the depot.

He charged Jacobs broke the lock on a box car at Gozaddale, but would not discuss the loot stolen.

Carr's confession also implicated a man named William Davison, Harrison, who is alleged to have brought a great amount of stolen property to Jacobs' home, where it was concealed.

He denied chicken thefts, claiming that his principal business was manufacture of liquor and that he owned 150-gallon stills in Hamilton, Clemons and Warren Counties.

He also confessed to the theft of a Buick sedan in Clinton County and is said to have admitted stealing another Buick auto which he knew had been stolen.

Carr is charged in grand jury indictments with burglary and larceny and shooting with intent to kill. He will be arraigned soon in Common Pleas Court.

He professed to have no knowledge of a number of other recent crimes attributed to him.

HOME GATES CLOSED TO NIGHT RIDERS

Motorists will not be permitted to enter the grounds of the O. S. and S. O. Home after 6 p. m. unless they have business at the administration building or with Home employees, is the ruling made by C. F. Nelson, military instructor at the institution, this week.

Drivers of autos are being stopped at the Home gates by a cadet and questioned as to their business at the Home. Reason for the rule is a desire to eliminate pernicious driving over the grounds at night, which has resulted in unpleasant incidents, Home officials announced.

The rule will be permanent, it is said.

STORED GOODS LOST IN HATCHERY BLAZE MADE DAMAGE BASIS

Asserting his entire stock of pool room goods and fixtures valued at $800 was destroyed in a fire which swept a three-story brick building on Washington St. last March 21 wiping out the Xenia Hatcheries Co., Nate Hamilton, Springfield, O., has filed suit in Common Pleas Court for recovery of this amount from Leland Cramer and William Russell Steele, operators of the hatchery.

Hamilton sets forth that he contracted with Diver Belden, owner of the brick building and an adjacent frame structure, August 31, 1926, for storage of pool room fixtures.

The stock included two pool tables, a fourteen-foot counter, a large mirror side board, a counter cigar case, a cash register, two run tables, seven chairs, an ice box with dimensions of five feet by three feet, a peanut and popcorn roaster and three pictures, according to the petition.

Plaintiff claims that he was to pay Belden $2 rent per month but that February 21, 1927, when both buildings were leased to Cramer and Steele for use as a hatchery, the defendants raised the price of storage to $3 a month.

Cramer and Steele, without his knowledge or consent, negligently moved his goods and fixtures from the frame to the brick building, where incubators were located and where fires were kept burning day and night during the hatching season, Hamilton charges.

Because of this Hamilton's property was entirely consumed in the recent fire which razed the brick building, the petition alleges.

E. D. and George H. Smith are attorneys for the plaintiff.

POSTPONE HEARING OF COLORED YOUTH

Hearing of William Byrd, 17, colored, held in the County Jail on charges of delinquency and theft, scheduled for Thursday afternoon in Juvenile Court, was continued until Monday afternoon, April 9, by Judge S. C. Wright, who ordered Probation Officer J. E. Watts to make a complete investigation of the case.

Byrd, 17, is charged, befriended Lewis Allen, 50, colored, 422 Lexington Ave., to the extent of taking him home March 24 after Allen had been drinking and then took advantage of his condition to rob him of $21.25.

GLIMPSES OF OHIO HISTORY

THE graceful romantic transportation of the Indians up and down La Belle Riviere has given way to the caravan of the palefaces in twentieth century vehicles along model highways that line the Beautiful River.

UP AND DOWN LA BELLE RIVIERE

WHEN the French explorers first beheld the stream already known to the Indians as "Oh'eyo," meaning beautiful lake, they translated the name into their own language as La Belle Riviere and to travelers from all the corners of the earth it is still The Beautiful River.

Time has brought many changes since the Indian, perhaps, prayed to Oh'eyo to spare him from the flood of its anger; cities have replaced the tent villages, and the trails of the red men have become model highways lined with tourists.

Oh'eyo has become in our distinctly-American tongue "Ohio." And in the southwestern part of the state that bears its name thousands of motorists are attracted by the friendly red and white Service Stations bearing the good name "Loreco."

At this season of the year the traveler speaks with confidence when he asks for Loreco Motor Oil and Loreco 88, the ideal motor fuel which sells at no increase in price. Its quick starting qualities afford instant get-away in all weather conditions.

Veedol Motor Oil and Greases who prefer these nationally are also distributed from distributed products nationally most Loreco Stations for the accommodation of those

SWEETHEARTS

AUTHOR of "MY SON'S SWEETHEARTS," "CONFESSIONS OF A WIFE," ETC.
Copyright, 1927, by Central Press Association, Inc.

READ THIS FIRST:

Lynda Fenton, daughter of John Fenton, a periodical drunkard, has just obtained her first job as typist in the office of Armitage & Son.
Ever since she has been able to understand, her father has told her that her mother had deserted him for a man who had more money than he, and insists that every woman has her price.Lynda's one friend and companion since childhood is David Kenmore, who holds a position as salesman with Armitage & Son.At the office Lynda meets Emily Andrews, who cherishes a secret fondness for David, and is consequently jealous of Emily. Emily decides to make it as uncomfortable for Lynda as possible. It is just dawning upon David that he is in love with Lynda, although he has imagined that he is interested in Emily.Returning from the office one evening, Lynda finds that her father has deserted her. David calls for her next morning, tells her that he loves her, and that if she can get someone to stay with her, and will wait until the first of the year, he'll ask her to be his wife.Lynda finds an old school acquaintance, Claire Stanhope, working in the office, and asks her to come and live with her.Ralph Armitage appoints Lynda his private secretary, and Emily Andrews tells her she can expect the girls to "high hat" her.

(Now Go On With The Story)

CHAPTER XIV

CLAIRE TELLS HER STORY

Emily Andrews had the grace to blush when Lynda asked her whether she would turn down the position with young Mr. Armitage as his secretary. But one must say this for Emily—she always was frank."I'll say I wouldn't," she stated, decisively. "I'd take it so quickly that it would make Armitage's hair curl in spite of the stay-on-it that is on it. But you see, Lynda, I didn't think you were that kind.""What kind?"
"Why, you're a regular little an-nexer. What will your David say to all this?""He told me himself that he expected me to become Mr. Armitage's secretary very soon," replied
Lynda.Still she looked rather startled when Emily Andrews asked her when David would think of her promotion. She realized that she had not once thought of David since Mr. Armitage had called her into his office, and even at this moment she didn't care what David would think. He had told her in the beginning that she would probably become young Armitage's secretary. He couldn't say much about it now, except to congratulate her."When are you going to work in Armitage's office?" asked Emily, using the nickname she had given him before he came into the firm.

"Tomorrow morning."

"Well, you certainly are the fast worker, and to think you did it all with that little guileless white face of yours. If I thought I could enter your class, I'd never use a lipstick as a disguise again."Lynda looked puzzled, but did not ask Emily what she meant.
She had already decided to beg Claire to tell her what kind of a lipstick she used, as she knew Claire was going home with her tonight.When the office closed, she hurried to meet Claire. After they had gone all over Lynda's house, Claire sat down in the clean kitchen with a sigh of content."This is altogether too good to be true, Lynda. Do you really think I can afford to live with you? I only get thirty-five dollars a week."She put her hand into her pocket and drew out some bills."I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll put thirty-five dollars in this blue pitcher against the rent of your house for a month, and we'll see how long it will last for food. If you have to pay out more, I'll pay half. If we can make it do for both of us, I'll consider myself luckier than I deserve.""Why, Claire," said Lynda, with a smile, "I've never had thirty-five dollars in one month in my life to spend for food, and I've been David's housekeeper ever since I was twelve years old. Of course, we'll have to do every bit of the work ourselves, and be very economical, but I am sure we'll be able to make a go of it.""You take David's room, Claire, and I'll see what I can do with the marketing for the first week."Rising to her feet, and making a very dignified bow, she asked:
"What will you have for dinner
tonight, Miss Stanhope?""I'll have hot waffles and honey, Miss Fenton," answered Claire, not dreaming she would get them."All right. You go get your clothes and things from where you have been staying, and I'll have the waffles ready when you get back."Claire was gone longer than she expected, and when she stepped into the kitchen, Lynda knew that something had happened while she was away."Hurry up, Claire, there's a waffle on the iron, and I'm sure you can smell the coffee.""Hurry up, Claire, there's a waffle on the iron, and I'm sure you can smell the coffee."to tell you something. Come here and sit down."There was a sob in Claire's voice which Lynda seemed to know must not be contradicted. She turned out the blaze under the coffee, set the waffle iron aside, and seated herself beside Claire, who began:"I don't know who Emily Andrews told you about Fred Blaque and me, Lynda, but I must tell you the truth about it, before I have eaten a bite or sleep in your house."I was sixteen when I first met Fred. I fell in love the first night I met him. I wondered how it would feel, even then, to have him close my eyes with his kisses."Lynda gave a delicious little shudder, for she remembered
David's kisses on her eyes.Claire's reaction was that Lynda had made a gesture of disgust, and said quickly:"Yes, I know how that must sound to your innocent ears; and pray God, Lynda, that you may never know the mad rapture of such kisses, for after your eyes have been closed by those lips which will look upon the same world again.""Fred loved me at first, too. We lived only for each other. I confidently expected he would ask meto marry him in the spring and, girl-like, planned my wedding clothes, when one day a woman stopped me on the street and asked me what I meant by stealing a man away from his wife and helpless little children. I told her I did not know what she was talking about. That didn't keep her from explaining in detail that she knew all about me, and threatened if I didn't leave her husband alone, she would horsewhip me.""You can imagine what that meant to me, for I was perfectly innocent of any wrong doing. That evening, I asked Fred about it, and he told me it was true. He was married, with a child, and I was something in me died and I only prayed that the rest of me would die soon, so that I could be decently buried, altogether, body and soul.""Since that night, that dead thing I've been lugging around in my breast, is my love for Fred. He didn't seem to understand when I told him I didn't love him any more. He thought I was just hurt and angry. He took me into his arms, and with his lips on my eyes in the old-time caress, he said:"Why, Claire, you're crying!"
(TO BE CONTINUED)COUNTRY CLUB STOCKHOLDERS HOLD MEETING NEXT WEDNESDAYAnnual stockholders meeting of the Xenia Country Club, to be followed by organization of the board of directors and election of new officers for 1928, will be held at the club house at 7:30 p. m., Wednesday, April 11, according to E. H.
Heathman, secretary-treasurer.A full attendance of club members is desired at this time of the meeting, called for the purpose of electing directors. All members, regardless of whether they are not stockholders, are urged to be present.It is expected that a date for the ning to swarm the links at every opportunity.The course, including the fairways and greens, was never in better condition for this time of the year, having responded to treatment.Facilities of the club have been improved upon by the erection of a new caddy house east of the clubhouse, located on what was formerly used as a tennis court. However, ground is still available for tennis, providing the court is placed in the proper condition.Caddies will maintain headquarters in the new structure, which is a frame building about twenty-four feet square. Joe Bales, caretaker, is also provided with quarters in the structure, Patrick Gillespie hasagain been employed as caddy master.Minor improvements have also been made to the clubhouse in the way of painting and other work designed to make it present a more attractive appearance.WILLIAMS TO GIVE

SWEETHEARTS

AUTHOR OF "MY SON'S SWEETHEARTS," "CONFESSIONS OF A WIFE," ETC.

READ THIS FIRST:

Lynda Fenton, daughter of John Fenton, a periodical drunkard, has just obtained her first job as typist in the office of Armitage & Son. Ever since she has been able to understand, her father has told her that her mother had deserted him for a man who had more money than he, and insists that every woman has her price.

Lynda's one friend and companion since childhood is David Kenmore, who holds a position as salesman with Armitage & Son.

At the office Lynda meets Emily Andrews, who cherishes a secret fondness for David, and is consequently jealous of her. Emily decides to make it as uncomfortable for Lynda as possible. It is just dawning upon David that he is in love with Lynda, although he has imagined that he is interested in Emily.

Returning from the office one evening, Lynda finds that her father has deserted her. David calls for her next morning, tells her that he loves her, and that if she can get someone to stay with her, and will wait until the first of the year, he'll ask her to be his wife.

Lynda finds an old school acquaintance, Claire Stanhope, working in the office, and asks her to come and live with her.

Ralph Armitage appoints Lynda his private secretary, and Emily Andrews tells her she can expect the girls to "high hat" her.

(Now Go On With The Story)

CHAPTER XIV
CLAIRE TELLS HER STORY

Emily Andrews looked the grace to blush when Lynda asked her whether she would turn down the position with young Mr. Armitage as his secretary. But one must say this for Emily—she always was frank.

"I'll say I wouldn't," she stated, decisively. "I'd take it so quickly that it would make Armitage's hair curl in spite of the staycomb that is on it. But you see, Lynda, I didn't think you were that kind."

"What kind?"

"Why, you're a regular little annex. What will your David say to all this?"

"He told me himself that he expected me to become Mr. Armitage's secretary very soon," replied Lynda.

Still she looked rather startled when Emily Andrews asked her what David would think of her promotion. She realized that she had not once thought of David since Mr. Armitage had called her into his office, and even at this moment she didn't care what David would think. He had told her in the beginning that she would probably become young Armitage's secretary. He couldn't say much about it now, except to congratulate her.

"When are you going to work in Armitage's office?" asked Emily, using the nickname she had given him before he came into the firm.

"Tomorrow morning."

"Well, you certainly are the fast worker; and to think you did it all with that little guileless white face of yours. If I thought I could enter your class, I'd never use a lipstick as a disguise again."

Lynda looked puzzled, but did not ask Emily what she meant. She had already decided to beg Claire to tell her what kind of a lipstick she used, as she knew Claire was going home with her tonight.

When the office closed, she hurried out to meet Claire. After they had gone all over Lynda's house, Claire sat down in the clean kitchen with a sigh of content.

"This is altogether too good to be true. Lynda, do you really think I can afford to live with you? I only get thirty-five dollars a week."

She put her hand into her pocket and drew out some bills.

"I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll put thirty-five dollars in this blue pitcher against the rent of your house for a month, and we'll see how long it will last for food. If you have to pay out more, I'll pay half. If we can make it do for both of us, I'll consider myself luckier than I deserve."

"Why, Claire," said Lynda, with a smile, "I've never had thirty-five dollars in one month in my life to spend for food, and I've been David's housekeeper ever since. I was twelve years old. Of course, we'll have to do every bit of the work ourselves, and be very economical, but I am sure we'll be able to make a go of it."

"You take David's room, Claire, and I'll see what I can do with the marketing for the first week."

Rising to her feet, and making a very dignified bow, she asked:

"What will you have for dinner tonight, Miss Stanhope?"

"I'll have hot waffles and honey," Miss Fenton answered Claire, not dreaming she would get them.

"All right. You go get your clothes and things from where you have been staying, and I'll have the waffles ready when you get back."

Claire was gone longer than she expected, and when she stepped into the kitchen, Lynda knew that something had happened while she was away.

"Hurry up, Claire, there's a waffle on the iron, and I'm sure you can smell the coffee."

"I can't eat now, Lynda. I've got to tell you something. Come here and sit down."

"Hurry up, Claire, there's a waffle on the iron, and I'm sure you can smell the coffee."

There was a sob in Claire's voice which Lynda seemed to know must not be contradicted. She turned out the blaze under the coffee, set the waffle iron aside, and seated herself beside Claire, who began:

"I don't know what Emily Andrews told you about Fred Blaque and me, Lynda, but I must tell you the truth about it, before I have eaten a bite or sleep in your house. I was sixteen when I first met Fred. I fell in love the first night I met him. I wondered how it would feel, even then, to have him close my eyes with his kisses."

Lynda gave a delicious little shudder, for she remembered David's kisses on her eyes.

Claire's reaction was that Lynda had made a gesture of disgust, and said quickly:

"Yes, I know how that must sound to your innocent ears; and pray God, Lynda, that you may never know the mad rapture of such kisses, for after your eyes have once been closed by your lover's lips upon them, they will never look upon the same world again."

"Fred loved me at first, too. We lived only for each other. I confidently expected he would ask me to marry him in the spring and, girl-like, planned my wedding clothes, when one day a woman stopped me on the street and asked me what I meant by stealing a man away from his wife and helpless little children. I told her I did not know what she was talking about. That didn't keep her from explaining in detail that she knew all about me, and threatened if I didn't leave her husband alone, she would horsewhip me.

"You can imagine what that meant to me, for I was perfectly innocent of any wrong doing. That evening, I asked Fred about it, and he told me it was true. He was married. Which he told me that, something in me died and I only prayed that the rest of me would die soon, so that I could be decently buried, altogether, body and soul."

"Since that night, that dead thing I've been lugging around in my breast, is my love for Fred. He didn't seem to understand when I told him I didn't love him any more. He thought I was just hurt and angry. He took me into his arms, and with his lips on my eyes in the old-time caress, he said: 'Why, Claire, you're crying.'"

COUNTRY CLUB STOCKHOLDERS
HOLD MEETING NEXT WEDNESDAY

Annual stockholders meeting of the Xenia Country Club, to be followed by organization of the board of directors and election of new officers for 1928, will be held at the club house at 7:30 p. m., Wednesday, April 11, according to E. H. Heathman, secretary-treasurer.

A full attendance of club members is desired at the stockholders meeting, called for the purpose of electing directors. All members, regardless of whether they are not stockholders, are urged to be present.

It is expected that a date for the formal opening for 1928 will be agreed upon at this meeting.

Present officers are: Chalmers W. Murphy, president; H. L. Sayre, vice-president; E. H. Heathman, secretary-treasurer; and Walter Jobe, assistant secretary.

The nine members of the directorate are: W. C. Craig, E. J. Keyser, Walter Jobe, Mrs. Mary Dice, S. M. McKay, H. L. Sayre, Andrew Haman, E. H. Heathman and C. W. Murphy.

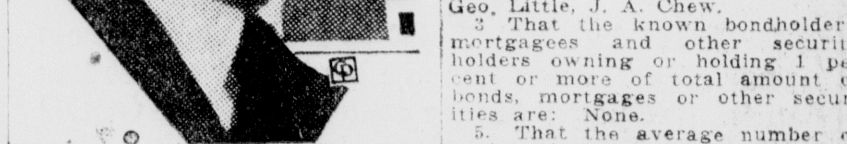

Golfers taking advantage of the warm weather, are already beginning to swarm the links at every opportunity.

The course, including the fairways and greens, was never in better condition for this time of the year, having responded to treatment.

Facilities of the club have been improved upon by the erection of a new caddy house east of the club house, located on what was formerly used as a tennis court. However, ground is still available for tennis, providing the court is placed in the proper condition.

Caddies will maintain headquarters in the new structure, which is a frame building about twenty-four feet square. Joe Bales, caretaker, is also provided with quarters in the structure. Patrick Gillespie has Herbert Brenon has purchased the screen rights to Fannie Hurst's famous novel "Lummock." Miss Hurst's story has been eyed with longing by various producers who have despaired of its possibilities, largely because of the peculiar difficulty of casting its leading character, an uncouth and rather unattractive Swedish girl servant.

Miss Hurst will collaborate with Brenon, who made "Beau Geste" and "Sorrento and Son" in preparing the scenario. Brenon has just completed making "Laugh, Clown, Laugh" starring Lon Chaney for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Taylor Holmes, ably supported by Marjorie Gatenon, Blanche Ring and James B. Carson, continues to amuse patrons of the farce, "The Great Necker" which is now in its fifth week on Broadway at the Ambassador Theater. The play is by Elmer Harris, formerly Broadway playwright, who has been devoting himself to moving picture activities during the last decade. The play ran six months on the Pacific Coast before being presented in New York.

Josephine Baker, noted colored entertainer, who has been the rage of Paris for several seasons, may be seen in her home town, Harlem, shortly. Negotiations are now under way between the entertainer and Lew Leslie the producer calling for the singer's appearance in "Blackbirds of 1928."

SEVENTH DISTRICT DELEGATES ARE FOR GOVERNOR LOWDEN

Although Ohio Willis-for-President delegates agreed to go to the Kansas City convention unopposed, Willis-bound delegates from the seventh congressional district have separately declared themselves for Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, for first choice and Vice President Charles G. Dawes for second choice.

The delegates at their Columbus meeting, considering changing their support to Lowden and then abandoned that plan in favor of an unopposed delegation. According to a resolution prepared by the seventh district candidates however, they believe, in fairness to the voting public, that they should make known that they will be for Lowden in the convention. Colonel Charles R. Fisher, named as second choice by the seventh district delegates, has released them from this pledge.

The resolution follows:

The undersigned were regularly nominated as candidates for delegates and alternates to the Republican National Convention at Kansas City in June as supporters of the late Senator Willis.

His lamented death has deprived us of that choice, as set forth in our certificates of candidacy. Further complying with the statute, we have indicated Colonel Charles R. Fisher as second choice. Colonel Fisher was not, and is not a candidate for president, and has generously released from any obligation to support him those who have made such declaration for him as second choice.

Therefore, frankness with the Republican electorate of this district requires that we should make a declaration of our intentions representing Presidential candidates, should we be elected. We, therefore, declare that in the event of our election, we will support Governor Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois, as our first choice, but should his nomination not seem possible, we will then cast our votes for General Charles G. Dawes, who has himself endorsed Governor Lowden.

We, therefore, solicit your support at the primaries on April 24, 1928.

ED PRESSINGER IS CLAIMED BY DEATH

Edward Pressinger, 53, Xenia tailor, died at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Dayton, early Friday morning. He had been removed to the hospital two weeks ago after suffering a paralytic stroke, but had been in ill health since the first of the year.

Mr. Pressinger had made his home recently with his sister, Mrs. Mary Shoemaker, W. Main St. He operated a tailoring shop on W. Main St., for a number of years.

He never married and leaves three sisters, Mrs. Shoemaker and Mrs. Anna Weber, this city, another sister in Indianapolis, and a brother, John Pressinger, who is in traveling work.

He was a member of St. Brigid Church. The remains were taken in charge by R. M. Neeld, funeral director. Funeral arrangements have not been made.

JAMES S. KIRK & COMPANY, CHICAGO

Radio Revue BY C. KAY

NEW YORK, April 6.—American amateurs are having less success in international radio communication than British and French amateurs because they do not build for efficiency at low power, in the opinion of G. J. Sandberg, of 2PRAAPR.

At some time or other every amateur builds a transmitter. The first is usually of lower power, and its construction is either "hay-wire" or "engineered." The "hay-wire" station generally consists of a condenser, a coil and a socket thrown together on a board. The contrivance may serve to communicate with a few stations within a short distance but isn't likely to give the operator an impressive log book.

"The other fellows get across on high power and if I had a 50-watt I'd be able to work the foreign stations, too," is a common alibi of amateurs minus a "DX" roll.

How should an efficient transmitter be built? Sandberg enumerates some of the salient points:

"An oscillator," he says, "will operate better with a negative battery bias applied to the grid than with a grid leak and condenser combination. This is corroborated by many experimenters, but its application appears to be only in crystal oscillators and their associated power amplifiers. This may be explained by the fact that the usual crystal set is carefully planned to operate at highest efficiency.

"In high powered set battery grid bias may be prohibitive, as well as expensive, for 201 A or 210 transmitter could be improved materially by the installation of a grid bias voltage. On large sets the amplifier tap on a B eliminator will easily provide the necessary grid bias voltage, and small B batteries are suitable for similar service in the small transmitter."

A matter equally as important as placement of radio frequency chokes. These chokes prevent the passage of radio frequency currents in circuits carrying low frequency energy, and should be inserted in the filament, battery grid bias leads and both negative and positive lines of high voltage supply. They increase efficiency by preventing leakage of radio frequency energy.

"Another point to be observed in an engineered low power set is the isolation of every component from imperfect insulation, poor dielectrics, and strong electrical fields. Good insulators and bakelite strips provide excellent insulation for this purpose, and careful location of each part to avoid interaction with other electro-magnetic and electrostatic fields will greatly improve the operation of the transmitter.

They increase efficiency by preventing leakage of radio frequency energy."

CONSTIPATION CAUSES NIGHTMARE DAYS

But the road to relief is simple

What a terrible thing it is to drag through the days! Dead-tired. Listless. With aching head and drooping shoulders—tell-tale symptoms of neglect! Yet, constipation is making life just such a round of despair for thousands of men and women. And leading to serious disease in the end.

SEVENTH DISTRICT DELEGATES ARE FOR GOVERNOR LOWDEN

Although Ohio Willis-for-President delegates agreed to go to the Kansas City convention unopposed, Willis-bound delegates from the seventh congressional district have separately declared themselves for Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, for first choice and Vice President Charles G. Dawes for second choice.

The delegates at their Columbus meeting, considering changing their support to Lowden and then abandoned that plan in favor of an unopposed delegate. According to a resolution prepared by the seventh district candidates however, they believe, in fairness to the voting public, that they should make known that they will be for Lowden in the convention. Colonel Charles R. Fisher, named as second choice by the seventh district delegates, has released them from this pledge.

The resolution follows:

The undersigned were regularly nominated as candidates for delegates and alternates to the Republican National Convention at Kansas City in June as supporters of the late Senator Willis.

His lamented death has deprived us of that choice, as set forth in our certificates of candidacy. Further complying with the salute, we have indicated Colonel Charles R. Fisher as second choice. Colonel Fisher was not, and is not a candidate for president, and has generously released from any obligation to support him those who have made such declaration for him as second choice.

THEREFORE, frankness with the Republican electorate of this district requires that we should make a declaration of our intentions representing Presidential candidates, should we be elected. We, therefore, declare that in the event of our election, we will support Governor Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois, as our first choice, but should his nomination not seem possible, we will then cast our votes for General Charles G. Dawes, who has himself endorsed Governor Lowden.

We, therefore, solicit your support at the primaries on April 24, 1928.

ED PRESSINGER IS CLAIMED BY DEATH

Edward Pressinger, 53, Xenia tailor, died at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Dayton, early Friday morning. He had been removed to the hospital two weeks ago after suffering a paralytic stroke, but had been in ill health since the first of the year.

Mr. Pressinger had made his home recently with his sister, Mrs. Mary Shoemaker, W. Main St. He operated a tailoring shop on W. Main St., for a number of years.

He never married and leaves three sisters, Mrs. Shoemaker and Mrs. Anna Weber, this city, another sister in Indianapolis, and a brother, John Pressinger, who is traveling work.

He was a member of St. Bridget Church. The remains were taken in charge by R. M. Need, funeral director. Funeral arrangements have not been made.

Radio Revue BY C. KAY

NEW YORK, April 6.—American amateurs are having less success in international radio communication than British and French amateurs because they do not build for efficiency at low power, in the opinion of G. J. Sandberg, of 2PR-AAPR.

At some time or other every amateur builds a transmitter. The first is usually of lower power, and its construction is either "hay-wired" or "engineered." The "hay-wired" station generally consists of a condenser, a coil and a socket thrown together on a board. The contrivance may serve to communicate with a few stations within a short distance but isn't likely to give the operator an impressive log book.

"The other fellows get across on high power and if I had a 50-watt transmitter I'd be able to work the foreign stations, too," is a common alibi of amateur minus a "DX" roll.

How should an efficient transmitter be built? Sandberg enumerates some of the salient points:

"An oscillator," he says, "will operate better with a negative battery bias applied to the grid than with a grid leak and condenser combination. This is corroborated by many experimenters, but its application appears to be only in crystal oscillators and their associated power amplifiers. This may be explained by the fact that the usual crystal set is carefully planned to operate at highest efficiency.

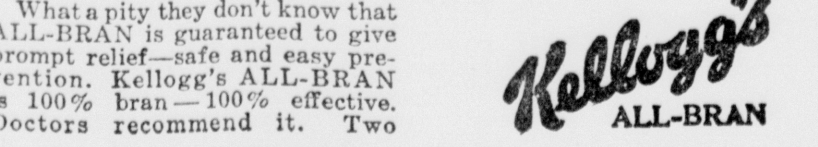

"In high powered set battery grid bias may be prohibitive, as well as expensive, for 201 A or 210 transmitter could be improved materially by the installation of a grid bias voltage. On large sets the

But the road to relief is simple

What a terrible thing it is to drag through the days! Dead-tired. Listless. With aching head and drooping shoulders—tell-tale symptoms of neglect! Yet, constipation is making life just such a round of despair for thousands of men and women. And leading to serious disease in the end.

What a pity they don't know that ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to give prompt relief—safe and easy prevention. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is 100% bran—100% effective. Doctors recommend it. Two amplifier tap on a B eliminator will easily provide the necessary grid bias voltage, and small B batteries are suitable for similar service in the small transmitter."

A matter equally as important as battery grid bias is the proper placement of radio frequency chokes. These chokes prevent the passage of radio frequency currents in circuits carrying low frequency energy, and should be inserted in the filament, battery grid bias leads and both negative and positive lines of high voltage supply. They increase efficiency by preventing leakage of radio frequency energy.

"Another point to be observed in an engineered low power set is the isolation of every component from imperfect insulation, poor dielectrics, and strong electrical fields. Good insulators and bakelite strips provide excellent insulation for this purpose, and careful location of each part to avoid interaction with other electro-magnetic and electrostatic fields will greatly improve the operation of the transmitter. They increase efficiency by preventing leakage of radio frequency energy."
